TWO CENTS

PUNISHED THE REBELS.

Wheaton Retaliated For the Attack at Taguig.

ABOUT 200 FILIPINOS KILLED.

Americans Could Hardly Get Within 1,200 Yards of the Rebels—Laguna de Bay Almost Under Our Control—Pennsylvanians Were Attacked.

MANILA, March 20.—Some of the rebels recently expelled from Cavite and the small towns in the vicinity of Pasig combined forces and Saturday night—as already cabled—attacked a company of the Washington volunteers, a detached post at Taguig, about a mile and a half southeast of Pasig. General Wheaton immediately reinforced the Americans with two companies each of the Washington and the Oregon regiments. The post had held the enemy in check and the fire of the reinforcing companies repulsed them, driving them across to an island formed estuary. They were thus in front of the Twenty-second regulars.

On discovering that they were entrapped the rebels fought desperately, aided materially by the jungle and the darkness, but they were completely routed, with heavy loss, after two hours fighting. The Americans lost two killed and 20 wounded, among the latter Lieutenant Frank Jones.

General Wheaton determined to punish the natives and at daybreak Sunday his brigade started in the following order:

The Sixth artillery holding the extreme right, the Oregon volunteers holding the center, the Washington regiment keeping to the edge of the lake and the Twenty-second regulars occupying the right of the line which swept the whole country along the lake in a southeasterly direction toward General Ovenshine's position. The line thus extending over two miles of country, rough and covered with thick jungle, advanced 11 miles. The enemy fled, the last of them being seen at 3:30 Sunday afternoon. At scarcely any time did the Americans get within 1,200 yards of them.

The troops were returning to Pasig last night exhausted by the hard work under a hot sun. The Oregon regiment had one man killed and four wounded and the Twenty-second regulars one wounded. According to the official reports no fewer than 200 Filipinos were killed.

General Otis says the American army and gunboats now command the lake. He estimates that property of the insurgents valued at $500,000 has been destroyed, while quantities of rice and sugar and 400 tons of coal, which is very valuable here, have been captured.

Many of the prisoners represented that the Filipino soldiers were weakening. The generous treatment that the Americans administer to the native prisoners and wounded seems to influence the insurgent army powerfully. In the opinion of the Americans, however, the Filipino leaders will continue to provoke fighting just as long as they can retain their hold upon their followers, because they have everything to gain and nothing to lose.

The enemy have twice as many men on their firing lines as they have arms, and the fact that so few arms are captured by the Americans is because the guns of the Filipinos and many of those who surrender are spirited away.

The armed tugs Laguna de Bay and Oeste have returned from San Pedro Macati and reported the result of their tour of the lake. On Friday morning last they shelled the town of Moreng, the rebels fleeing without making any response to the fire. The Americans landed a party which destroyed a quantity of stores and all the stone buildings except the church.

The expedition then proceeded to Mayay, where a sugar mill and saw mill were destroyed.

On arriving at Santa Cruz, a town of 1,200 inhabitants, it was found that the enemy was strongly entrenched and prepared to defend the position, assisted by two gunboats and several launches. Moreover the mouth of the river was blocked with rocks and bamboo.

A few shells caused an exodus of the citizens, but not of the enemy's troops. The Americans did not attempt to land.

Captain Grant, who is in charge of the expedition, asked for reinforcements and will probably take Santa Cruz today.

The entire American force has been reorganized, two divisions of three brigades each being formed, General Lawton commanding one and General MacArthur another another.

An attack was made by the rebels Saturday upon the battery at Lamo church, but the enemy were repulsed by the Pennsylvanians with heavy loss. Lieutenant Thompson and Privates McGivney and McCance of Company C were wounded.

A gunboat with a company of the Twenty-third regulars on was on the lake attacking small towns.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The war department received the following dispatch from Major General Otis regarding operations against the insurgents:

MANILA, March 19.

To Adjutant General Washington: "Our improvised gunboats under Captain Grant, Utah artillery, have full possession of Laguna de Bay; troops, in habitants and property on shore of lake at our mercy. Wheaton's brigade on Pasig river line drove enemy northeast into province Morong. Last evening attacked portion of his force south of Pasig, killing two men and wounding 20 of the Twenty-second infantry. This morning Wheaton moved against this insurgent force, driving it to the south 15 miles, experiencing very slight loss. Enemy left 200 dead on field. OTIS."

Arrived With Herschell's Body.

PORSCMOUTH, England, March 20.—The British cruiser Talbot, with the body of Lord Herschell on board, which sailed from New York on March 3, arrived here.

HE SAW EMBALMED BEEF.

A Regular Soldier Told of It Being Brought to Tampa—Armour Employee Said So.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., March 20.—The army beef court of inquiry concluded the taking of testimony at Fort Leavenworth and departed for Chicago, where the sessions probably will be resumed today. The only witness examined Sunday was Sergeant Edward Mason, Troop A, First United States cavalry, located at Fort Robinson, Neb., who served as regimental commissary sergeant at Lakeland, Fla., and during the Cuban campaign.

Sergeant Mason's testimony was probably the most direct that has been adduced since the court left Chicago, witness declaring that meat received at Lakeland for use in his regiment was "undoubtedly chemically treated."

"An agent of Armour & Co.," he said, "told me at the time that this meat had been treated with what was called preservative." Witness had refused to accept the meat.

Sergeant Mason was interrogated individually by each member of the court and could not be shaken in his testimony.

Sergeant Mason failed to reach the fort Saturday, which made it necessary to take Sunday testimony.

RIOT OF MEXICANS.

Objected to Moving Smallpox Patients to Pesthouse—Regular Troops Called Out.

LAREDO, Tex., March 20.—The work of removing smallpox patients to the pesthouse under direction of State Health Officer Blunt was begun. After ten had been removed the officers encountered on East Matamoras street a mob of several hundred Mexicans who menaced them. Marshal Joe Barthelow and Assistant Marshal Idar hurried to the scene and attempted to arrest the leaders. They were assaulted with stones and fired upon. Idar was knocked down and severely beaten and one of the rioters was wounded. About 20 shots were fired. A dozen arrests were made and the mob dispersed.

The health officers resumed their work but were soon set upon by another mob of 500 or 600 Mexicans, many of them armed. As they could not contend with this force the health officers desisted and Dr. Blunt opened telegraphic communication with Governor Sayers. The war department telegraphed authority to use troops at Fort McIntosh. The Mexicans were much excited and a fight was probable when the negro regulars arrive.

Windsor Hotel Fire Fatalities Appalling.

MEN WORKED ON THE RUINS.

Unable, However to Accomplish Much in the Way of Getting at the Burned Bodies—Services Over the Remains of Mrs. Leland and Daughter.

NEW YORK, March 20.—In a drizzling rain more than 200 men continued to work among the debris and smoldering ruins of the Windsor hotel searching for the bodies of those who perished in the flames and to recover any valuables that might have escaped the ravages of the fire. The efforts of the searchers were futile, however, as the ruins were too hot to permit much progress, and the smoke arising from the burning material was rendered more dense by the dampness of the atmosphere. At intervals during the night flames burst forth from the burning embers and drove back the workmen.

Work was begun to demolish the fragmentary portions of walls on the east and north sides of the burned building and later the number of workers was reinforced and the work of removing the rubbish pushed as vigorously as was practicable. Some of the men on a wall got off just in time, as a portion of it fell.

The known dead were:

Connolly, John, employe of Windsor hotel.

Flanagan, Kate, chambermaid of hotel.

EDMUND, Ala., March 20.—A terrific windstorm, accompanied by rain and hail, passed through the extensive plantation of Samuel Curry, in Chilton county.

Eleven tenement houses were blown down and two negro boys were killed. Sixteen other negro tenants were injured.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 20.—Additional details of Saturday night's cyclone near Edwardsville, were received here. The following is a list of the dead:

Lewis Coffee, aged 55, tax assessor of Cleburne county, and the following members of his family:

Mrs. Coffee, aged 46.

Leila, aged 22.

James, aged 20.

Lula, aged 18.

HE SAW EMBALMED BEEF.

A Regular Soldier Told of It Being Brought to Tampa—Armour Employee Said So.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., March 20.—The army beef court of inquiry concluded the taking of testimony at Fort Leavenworth and departed for Chicago, where the sessions probably will be resumed today. The only witness examined Sunday was Sergeant Edward Mason, Troop A, First United States cavalry, located at Fort Robinson, Neb., who served as regimental commissary sergeant at Lakeland, Fla., and during the Cuban campaign.

Sergeant Mason's testimony was probably the most direct that has been adduced since the court left Chicago, witness declaring that meat received at Lakeland for use in his regiment was "undoubtedly chemically treated."

"An agent of Armour & Co.," he said, "told me at the time that this meat had been treated with what was called preservative." Witness had refused to accept the meat.

Sergeant Mason was interrogated individually by each member of the court and could not be shaken in his testimony.

Sergeant Mason failed to reach the fort Saturday, which made it necessary to take Sunday testimony.

RIOT OF MEXICANS.

Objected to Moving Smallpox Patients to Pesthouse—Regular Troops Called Out.

LAREDO, Tex., March 20.—The work of removing smallpox patients to the pesthouse under direction of State Health Officer Blunt was begun. After ten had been removed the officers encountered on East Matamoras street a mob of several hundred Mexicans, who menaced them. Marshal Joe Barthelow and Assistant Marshal Idar hurried to the scene and attempted to arrest the leaders. They were assaulted with stones and fired upon. Idar was knocked down and severely beaten and one of the rioters was wounded. About 20 shots were fired. A dozen arrests were made and the mob dispersed.

The health officers resumed their work; but were soon set upon by another mob of 500 or 600 Mexicans, many of them armed. As they could not contend with this force the health officers desisted and Dr. Blunt opened telegraphic communication with Governor Sayers. The war department telegraphed authority to use troops at Fort McIntosh. The Mexicans were much excited and a fight was probable when the negro regulars arrived.

Windsor Hotel Fire Fatalities Appalling.

MEN WORKED ON THE RUINS.

Unable, However to Accomplish Much in the Way of Getting at the Burned Bodies—Services Over the Remains of Mrs. Leland and Daughter.

NEW YORK, March 20.—In a drizzling rain more than 200 men continued to work among the debris and smoldering ruins of the Windsor hotel searching for the bodies of those who perished in the flames and to recover any valuables that might have escaped the ravages of the fire. The efforts of the searchers were futile, however, as the ruins were too hot to permit much progress, and the smoke arising from the burning material was rendered more dense by the dampness of the atmosphere. At intervals during the night flames burst forth from the burning embers and drove back the workmen.

Work was begun to demolish the fragmentary portions of walls on the east and north sides of the burned building and later the number of workers was reinforced and the work of removing the rubbish pushed as vigorously as was practicable. Some of the men on a wall got off just in time, as a portion of it fell.

The known dead were:

Connolly, John, employee of Windsor hotel.

Flanagan, Kate, chambermaid of hotel.

Gibson, Miss Addie, 35 years, Cincinnati, wife of John M. Gibson, part owner of the Gibson House in Cincinnati.

Goodman, Eleanor Louise, 17 years, daughter of Samuel Goodman of New York, fractured skull; died at Bellevue hospital.

Grandy, Miss Laselles, of Elizabeth City, N. C.

Henry, Mrs. McHitable, widow of Dr. Morris P. Henry.

Kirk, Mrs. Nancy Ann, 72 years, widow of James S. Kirk, soap manufacturer, Chicago.

WELDING OF COPPER.

Lost Secret Said to Have Been Discovered in St. Louis.

A young Norwegian working in a St. Louis machine shop claims to have discovered one of the lost arts, that of welding copper. The other day a specimen piece of welding was exhibited by C. W. Marshall of St. Louis, a friend of the young mechanic, who for the present withholds his name and the secret of his process.

He has been experimenting for five years and after almost giving up hit upon the idea accidentally. He was experimenting to temper copper, and in disgust threw a piece of the warm metal on the floor. When he picked it up, it was perfectly welded to a small piece of steel. The copper had been treated by a liquid not intended for the purpose, but which proved the material to render it possible to be welded.

He repeated the experiment several times, each time employing a larger piece of metal and meeting with the same success. He shows how the welding is accomplished in his little machine shop, but will not disclose the nature of the materials used until he has secured a patent on his secret. The specimen shown was perfect, the two metals apparently being drawn together with the solidity of one substance.—Chicago Times-Herald.

WELDING OF COPPER.

Lost Secret Said to Have Been Discovered In St. Louis.

A young Norwegian working in a St. Louis machine shop claims to have discovered one of the lost arts, that of welding copper. The other day a specimen piece of welding was exhibited by C. W. Marshall of St. Louis, a friend of the young mechanic, who for the present withholds his name and the secret of his process.

He has been experimenting for five years and after almost giving up hit upon the idea accidentally. He was experimenting to temper copper, and in disgust threw a piece of the warm metal on the floor. When he picked it up, it was perfectly welded to a small piece of steel. The copper had been treated by a liquid not intended for the purpose, but which proved the material to render it possible to be welded.

He repeated the experiment several times, each time employing a larger piece of metal and meeting with the same success. He shows how the welding is accomplished in his little machine shop, but will not disclose the nature of the materials used until he has secured a patent on his secret. The specimen shown was perfect, the two metals apparently being drawn together with the solidity of one substance.—Chicago Times-Herald.

TO BE A SENATORIAL CANDIDATE

A Statement From the Venerable Pastor of the First U. P. Church In Answer to the Urgent Appeals of His Friends Throughout the County.

Rev. Dr. Taggart, of the First U. P. church of this place, announces that he will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for state senator.

During the past few months a number of the reverend gentleman's friends have been urging him to enter the field, knowing that his wide acquaintance throughout the district and his sterling worth as a man would gather votes to his standard without the formality of a hard fought campaign. A number of persons have urged the gentleman personally to become a candidate, and the expression on the street has been very much in his favor.

The gentleman today gave the News Review the following statement:

"In your paper of Saturday there is a brief editorial to the effect that many of my friends are urging me to be a candidate for nomination for state senator of this district.

"This is true and the reason for such solicitation is heartily appreciated by me. But to put an end to all such requests I wish to say that I cannot permit my name to be used in this connection. The reasons I gave, in a letter published some years ago for not being a candidate for this office, still remain.

"I am in sympathy with the desire to have some one nominated for this office who will better represent the temperance sentiment of this county and district than the present incumbent, who will likely be a candidate for re-nomination.

"If the senator is to come from this country this year it is to be hoped that there is enough temperance sentiment in the dominant party to secure the nomination of some one else than the man whose record in the last session of the senate showed himself to be the open and avowed friend of the liquor traffic.

"That some such candidate may be found and that this senatorial district, so largely temperance in its sentiment, may have a senator in the next assembly to fitly represent it is my earnest desire and hope."

CLOSE CONTEST QUICKLY SETTLED

Connell and Ferrall Each Received the Same Number of Votes for City Solicitor of Lisbon—Much Interest Manifested at the Primaries Saturday.

LISBON, March 20.—[Special]—As much interest was manifested in the Republican primary election for borough and township offices Saturday afternoon as is usual at a state election, and a large vote was polled—1,040 on the township ticket. The most exciting contest was between Geo. T. Ferrall and Chas. C. Connell for city solicitor, and when the vote was counted the result was a tie. They then flipped coppers to decide the contest, and Connell won. That is about the manner in which a great many voters decided to vote. The borough ticket is as follows:

Solicitor, C. C. Connell; treasurer, W. H. Hepburn; council, Charles W. Huston, William M. Hostetter, C. M. Lindsay and P. M. Armstrong; water trustee, C. H. Baker; cemetery trustee, B. S. Young. A fierce battle ensued, lasting fully a half hour, during which the aged lady was terribly lacerated about the face, hands and body, and part of her clothing was torn off. She found her way home, where neighbors discovered her the next morning. Near the chicken house was found a huge opossum lying dead in the mud and snow. ## NOISY.

A Few Fights Broke the Monotony Saturday Night.

The primary election Saturday evening seemed to have an unusual influence on a number of people and the drunks on the streets were numerous.

Late in the night a fight took place at the corner of Broadway and Sixth street, and a few minutes later another one was in progress in the Diamond. The combatants were separated before anyone was seriously injured. There were no arrests.

CLOSE CONTEST QUICKLY SETTLED

Connell and Ferrall Each Received the Same Number of Votes for City Solicitor of Lisbon—Much Interest Manifested at the Primaries Saturday.

LISBON, March 20.—[Special]—As much interest was manifested in the Republican primary election for borough and township offices Saturday afternoon as is usual at a state election, and a large vote was polled—1,040 on the township ticket. The most exciting contest was between Geo. T. Ferrall and Chas. C. Connell for city solicitor, and when the vote was counted the result was a tie. They then flipped coppers to decide the contest, and Connell won. That is about the manner in which a great many voters decided to vote. The borough ticket is as follows:

Solicitor, C. C. Connell; treasurer, W. H. Hepburn; council, Charles W. Huston, William M. Hostetter, C. M. Lindsay and P. M. Armstrong; water trustee, C. H. Baker; cemetery trustee, B. S. Young. Township—Clerk, Chas. C. Green; treasurer, W. H. Hepburn; trustee, Peter Davis; assessors, F. R. Sherbine and A. W. H. Martin.

AGED WOMEN'S SCRAP WITH A POSSUM.

Mrs. A. Doolittle, an aged lady of Streetboro township, O., who lives alone, heard a fearful uproar in her chicken house late the other night. She arose, grabbed a poker and started for the scene. She was convinced that some wild animal was among the chickens, judging from the noise, but was unable to distinguish it in the dark. She struck at the animal when it sprang at her. A fierce battle ensued, lasting fully a half hour, during which the aged lady was terribly lacerated about the face, hands and body, and part of her clothing was torn off. She found her way home, where neighbors discovered her the next morning. Near the chicken house was found a huge opossum lying dead in the mud and snow. Mrs. Doolittle is 80 years of age, and her condition is serious.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

ICE FLOES PASSING NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans recently witnessed one of the novel features of the late unpreceded cold spell—ice floes floating by the city. For some weeks past we have heard of a great deal of ice in the river above. There was an ice gorge at Vicksburg and so much ice in the river at Plaquemine as to make it dangerous to go about in a skiff there. About daylight the other day this ice began passing New Orleans, kept up all day and the entire central channel was filled with large floes of ice, many feet in length and apparently deep in the river. Ice has floated by New Orleans on several occasions in the past, but never before like this, and the wharfs were crowded with thousands of people to see a phenomenon never seen here before and never likely to be seen again.—New Orleans Times-Democrat

INDIANA has enacted an anti-lynching law. Ohio already has one, but it is as useless as if it had never been passed.

FOR the first time in the memory of man the first precinct of the Fourth ward was the first to count and report its vote last Saturday night. It is usually the last.

THREE of the four candidates for council, nominated at the Republican primaries, are opposed to the dollar clause. The people of East Liverpool have no desire to pay for something they do not receive.

JIMMY RICE, the Canton Democrat who has his eye upon the gubernatorial nomination, has been in Washington calling on John R. McLean. That is good Democratic politics, provided McLean agreed to open his barrel, since it is conceded that gold, silver and greenbacks are going to talk in Democratic politics this year.

RELIABLE COUNCILMEN.

The citizens at large demand that city council shall be composed of men in whom confidence can be placed—men who are honest, truthful and conscientious, and who will legislate for the best interests of the masses. Evils may be endured for a time; but the reckoning comes at last. Men may boast that they have the ballots of the people subject to their order, and seem to think that cunning and misrepresentation will win. Such boasters will have a rude awakening, and not only their tools and creatures will go down in the storm, but they themselves will be lost in the wreckage.

CROKER AND BRYAN.

Democracy is certainly in a bad way if it must pin its faith to Croker or Bryan. As leaders these men are not what patriotic Americans desire. The Tammany boss, with his rough shod methods and iron determination is not a good man to place at the head of a great political organization. He would provide well for his friends, but the history of New York will show what he would do for the people in general. Colonel Bryan is equally without recommendation. He, too, is a politician with a great and burning love in his breast for himself. Since his defeat by William McKinley he has been a candidate for the next gathering of his party to consider. He became a soldier because he knew all Americans respected soldiers, and he gave up his command because he saw he could advance his interests as a candidate much better in the role of a private citizen. There was no thought of patriotism in Colonel Bryan's action, yet he knew there was work for the volunteer army before it disbanded. Take both of them. Put Croker beside Bryan, and look them over well. Selfishness, the advancement of their individual interests, seems foremost in the mind of each. Neither would be a good man to place at the head of the government.

Freight Business Good.

Business at the freight depot, while brisk, is not equal to that handled during the same month of last year. ### IN THE CHURCHES.

A Number of New Members Were Received.

The services at the First Presbyterian church last evening were not largely attended, owing to the inclement weather.

Dr. John Lloyd Lee preached an eloquent sermon from the subject:

"After the Victory, What?" The choir rendered a very pleasing selection,

the duet sung by Misses Baxter and James being very beautiful. Prof.

Laughlin and Mr. Stoddard sang a very pretty duet. At the morning service a number of persons were added to the church roll.

Rev. C. F. Swift, of the Methodist

Protestant church, in his sermon last evening said: "In the days of Paul and

Timothy, the same as today, ignorance

and inactivity have been the great sources of sin and failure, and as far as men have been lifted into knowledge so far clouds of darkness and evil have been scattered. We often point the finger of condemnation at a person instead of extending the hand of sympathy.

If you have been blest above others in knowledge and power then let out such blessing that others may be also blest."

Five persons were added to the Christian church at the service last evening.

The special services will be continued

this week.

Doctor Crawford occupied the pulpit

at the First M. E. church yesterday. The attendance in the evening was large, and the sermon excellent.

THEY WERE MARRIED

After Constable Found the Much Wanted Young Man

Fannie E. Bryan called at the office Squire Rose Saturday evening, and after whispering a few words to that official sat down to wait developments. Constable Miller was notified to do his duty, and in a short time appeared with William S. Higgins. Meantime the squire had secured a marriage license, and upon the arrival of the young man the ceremony was performed.

May Pass Tonight.

At a late hour this morning Wharf Agent Frank Pilgrim had not received word from the owners of the City of Pittsburg regarding the arrival of the boat at this city. It is thought, however, the packet will pass up this evening and will stop at the wharf.

That is good Democratic politics, provided McLean agreed to open his barrel, since it is conceded that gold, silver and greenbacks are going to talk in Democratic politics this year.

RELIABLE COUNCILMEN.

The citizens at large demand that city council shall be composed of men in whom confidence can be placed—men who are honest, truthful and conscientious, and who will legislate for the best interests of the masses. Evils may be endured for a time; but the reckoning comes at last. Men may boast that they have the ballots of the people subject to their order, and seem to think that cunning and misrepresentation will win. Such boasters will have a rude awakening, and not only their tools and creatures will go down in the storm, but they themselves will be lost in the wreckage.

CROKER AND BRYAN.

Democracy is certainly in a bad way if it must pin its faith to Croker or Bryan. As leaders these men are not what patriotic Americans desire. The Tammany boss, with his rough shod methods and iron determination is not a good man to place at the head of a great political organization. He would provide well for his friends, but the history of New York will show what he would do for the people in general. Colonel Bryan is equally without recommendation. He, too, is a politician with a great and burning love in his breast for himself. Since his defeat by William McKinley he has been a candidate for the next gathering of his party to consider. He became a soldier because he knew all Americans respected soldiers, and he gave up his command because he saw he could advance his interests as a candidate much better in the role of a private citizen. There was no thought of patriotism in Colonel Bryan's action, yet he knew there was work for the volunteer army before it disbanded. Take both of them. Put Croker beside Bryan, and look them over well. Selfishness, the advancement of their individual interests, seems foremost in the mind of each. Neither would be a good man to place at the head of the government.

IN THE CHURCHES.

A Number of New Members Were Received.

The services at the First Presbyterian church last evening were not largely attended, owing to the inclement weather. Dr. John Lloyd Lee preached an eloquent sermon from the subject: "After the Victory, What?" The choir rendered a very pleasing selection, the duet sung by Misses Baxter and James being very beautiful. Prof. Laughlin and Mr. Stoddard sang a very pretty duet. At the morning service a number of persons were added to the church roll.

Rev. C. F. Swift, of the Methodist Protestant church, in his sermon last evening said: "In the days of Paul and Timothy, the same as today, ignorance and inactivity have been the great sources of sin and failure, and as far as men have been lifted into knowledge so far clouds of darkness and evil have been scattered. We often point the finger of condemnation at a person instead of extending the hand of sympathy. If you have been blest above others in knowledge and power then let out such blessing that others may be also blest."

Five persons was added to the Christian church at the service last evening. The special services will be continued this week.

Doctor Crawford occupied the pulpit

at the First M. E. church yesterday. The attendance in the evening was large, and the sermon excellent.

Fannie E. Bryan called at the office Squire Rose Saturday evening, and after whispering a few words to that official sat down to wait developments. Meantime the squire had secured a marriage license, and upon the arrival of the young man the ceremony was performed.

CHALLIS ONLY ONE LEFT

Of the Crowd Who Sought Re-Election on the Main Issue—Doctor Taggart and Mr. Smith Are New Members of the School Board—A Few Women Went to the Polls. It Was Not an Exciting Afternoon, but an Enthusiastic Crowd Read the News Review Bulletins.

There were two tired, disgusted members of society in the city Saturday night. Their heads were bowed in grief, and their weary frames shook with the force of their emotion. They had quaffed the sparkling liquid ever found in the cup of political preferment, and had been happy; but their ambition had prompted them to drink again. Then they had swallowed the cruel dregs of bitter disappointment. They are known to their friends as Stewart and Olnhausen, and they voted for dollar gas.

It was the logical outcome of the campaign. Weeks ago when the gas companies demanded the public to pay for what it would not receive, that same public, silent and patient in the past, began to murmur its dissent. At no time did it break out. It simply nursed its wrong, and when the time came went to the polls and voted as it had been thinking. There is another who should have been with his compatriots in defeat, but he succeeded in slipping through. By promises to support any movement to obtain any improvement for the East End he carried the first precinct of his ward, and is consequently numbered with the victors.

The story of the primaries is not hard to tell. The interest manifested in the campaign was sufficient during the last few days to bring out a big vote, but the miserable weather of Saturday damped the ardor of many a patriot, and he did not go to the polls. Consequently the vote was not as large as the candidates expected. It did not require much time to count out the result, and by 7:30 o'clock the crowd which filled Washington street in front of the News Review was reading from the table on the bulletin the vote cast for every candidate in every precinct. It was that good humored and at times enthusiastic crowd to be found on every election night at the same place, and it had come expecting to remain at least an hour longer, and its surprise was marked when the last figure was placed on the board. The News Review was heartily congratulated on every hand, and the crowd dwindled away, but other crowds came, and until late in the night the information was eagerly devoured.

The fight centered on council in all wards, because Challis, Stewart and Olnhausen, avowed advocates of the gas companies, sought renomination. They fought hard for place, but went down. George Peach, the pronounced opponent of the gas companies, won with a good margin in spite of the fact that he too had served in council. The other councilmen, Josiah T. Smith and William Cuthbert, are new candidates and against the dollar clause. The sentiment of the people is thus shown.

The East End vote saved Challis. The East End councilman was very angry when F. M. Albright was persuaded to withdraw his name from the ticket, and openly boasted that he would vote and work for Challis and against Candidate Morris, claiming that Morris wanted to get into council in order to advance his personal property interests. This was used as an argument against Morris, and the further statement made that Morris had acted the part of a non-union man during some of the labor troubles here. The strong cause of Challis' vote, however, in the East End, was the oft repeated claim, vehemently and persistently pushed forward, that Challis had always and ever voted for East End improvements. This feature in Challis apparently covered a multitude of sins and short-comings, as East End improvements are naturally very close to the heart of our pushing and energetic and wide-awake brethren of East End. The opponents of Mr. Challis promise to faithfully ventilate his record, and his various votes while in council.

The battle for three seats in the board of education did not attract much attention, although surprise was expressed when the result was announced. The new members are Rev. Dr. Taggart and J. H. Smith, while Walter B. Hill is already a member of the board.

Another contest which the prophets said a few days ago would be close was for justice of the peace, but the result shows that the prophets are entitled to another guess. Daniel McLane defeated Joseph P. Hanlon by the largest number of votes given a candidate who had an opponent.

The battle for constable extended through a few weeks, and the candidates worked hard. The fight was carried into every ward, but C. W. Powell was too much for L. L. Golden, and will fill the position for the next term.

In all wards except the Fourth there were a number of candidates for assessor, and consequently the usual number of surprises. Some candidates worked hard for victory.

One feature of the election was the number of Republican ladies who voted for candidates for the board of education. Three appeared and deposited their ballots in East End and one in West End, while in other voting precincts they made their presence known.

The number of voters who failed to mark their ballots according to law was not larger than usual, although some difficulty was experienced at more than one voting place. The total number of votes cast was 1,450.

DEATH OF MISS LAWSON

Miss Cora Lawson, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawson, died at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night after a long illness. Gastritis was the cause of death, and the unfortunate young lady suffered a great deal during the six weeks preceding her death. She was aged 22 years, and among the best known and highly esteemed young women of Wellsville. The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. It will be private.

Miss Lawson is survived by her parents, her sister, Mrs. Edith Chapman, of Youngstown, and two brothers, Charles and Clifford. The former is married and resides in Vandalia, Ind.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

D. K. Fraser suffered a stroke of paralysis Saturday afternoon, and this morning was in a dangerous condition. Mr. Fraser is almost 80 years of age, and while not confined to his home has not been in the best of health for some time. It is not believed that he will recover. The gentleman is well known and highly respected.

NEWS OF WELLSVILLE.

Rev. A. P. Gillespie, of Evans City, preached two very brilliant sermons at the United Presbyterian church on Sunday. He returned to his home today.

Mrs. Bella Roose, of Galveston, Tex., who was formerly a resident of Wellsville, has been visiting friends in town. She left for home on Saturday.

Mrs. Albert Askew and daughter Rena have returned from Chicago and are now visiting Mrs. Askew's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson. In about a month they expect to remove permanently to Chicago, where Mr. Askew is employed.

The case of Richard Barr has been set for hearing before Squire MacKenzie this afternoon. The claim is that he was only in the recent row near the Barr saloon as a peacemaker, and he proposes to substantiate this claim.

Through Julius Goetz comes the information that Miss Mary Stewart, formerly a popular teacher of drawing and music in our public schools, is making rapid progress in her chosen art in Berlin. Miss Stewart is pursuing her studies in music in that city and has frequently sung before large audiences. Her many friends are gratified with the reports that come from her.

Mrs. T. P. George, of McDonald, Pa., visited with friends in town Saturday. She was on her way to visit her brother, Stacy Bough, of West Point, who is very ill.

Will Nicholson, of Oscaloosa, Iowa, visited his brother, J. C. Nicholson, last week, and returned to his home. Will is a former Wellsville boy, and he is now engaged in newspaper work in Oscaloosa. Collin Nicholson, another brother, was also in town, and has now gone to Carrollton.

Mrs. John Maylone left this morning for the East End, Pittsburgh. She goes to celebrate the arrival of a son in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Connor of that place.

The last word from Jesse Cohagen is that he is now stationed at the barracks in Columbus. He has been accepted as a soldier, but not has been assigned to his company. He expects to leave for San Francisco this week from which place he will go to Manila.

Miss Mary Stokes was able to resume her duties in the school room, the first time since her illness of two months duration.

A WRECK

Delayed the Early Train From Cleveland Today.

During the night four cars of freight train No 88 east bound were derailed several miles west of Alliance. The wreck train from Alliance was called, and after several hours hard work the tracks were cleared. Train 342, due in this city at 5:01 this morning, did not arrive until 9:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Johnson Coming Home.

A letter was received in the city today from Mrs. M. B. Johnson stating that she was still in Flora, Ill., but expected to start home in a few days.

IMPRISONED MINERS IN LUCK

Food, an Electric Light and Newspapers Sent Them by a Tube.

Two miners in the employ of the Penrose Mining company at Leadville were at work recently at the bottom of a 400 foot shaft when a cave in occurred at the 300 foot level. When within a few feet of the men, the falling debris was held by a huge boulder of granite which had been loosened and which blocked the passage with the exception of a ten inch hole.

An effort was made to reach the miners when the cave in occurred. The rescuing party, much to its surprise, found the two men alive and unhurt. A tube ten inches in diameter was placed in the aperture, and through it the men were furnished with food, clothing and later an electric light and the daily papers.

It will take at least three weeks to get the men out of the shaft, and the rescue must be accomplished by tunneling near the rock, sinking a second shaft and then again tunneling to the point where the men are imprisoned. The rock of granite, if disturbed, would crush the men.—New York Sun.

MOCK TERRAPIN FROM MARYLAND.

With the passing of the diamond back terrapin from waters near Chestertown, Md., and its general scarcity the business of developing "sliders" and "red belly" terrapins has begun in the waters of Kent county. These terrapins are now in winter quarters by the thousands in the marshes and are in their best condition. The "slider" often attains extremely large proportions, weighing as much as 20 pounds or over. The "red belly" is a smaller species. The large variety sometimes sells as high as $2.50 apiece, though the average price is from 75 cents to $1.50 per dozen. The diamond back has been almost entirely superseded by the "slider" and "red belly."—Baltimore Sun.

He Was Mistaken.

An English literary man who visited this country to lecture frankly declared that he came, not expecting to find accurate scholarship among Americans, especially on purely literary subjects, adding affably.

"You have been too busy and useful a nation in practical matters to give much time to the arts and graces of learning."

During the dinner at which he made this remark he criticised Shakespeare, sharply declaring that his metaphors often were absurd. "As, for example," he said, "Sleep that knits up the raveled sleeve of care." How ridiculous to figure sleep as knitting up a torn sleeve of a coat!"

A young American sitting near him said modestly: "I think the word is not sleeve, but sleeve, the thin fluff of a damaged web. It is a technical expression among weavers."

"In the States probably!" retorted the critic irritably. "Shakespeare never could have heard it. He meant sleeve."

"I believe," persisted the American gently, "the word is printed sleeve in all the old editions. It is not an American word, but has been used for centuries by weavers in Scotland and the north of England."

The visitor frowned and then with English frankness said, laughing: "Thank you; I was mistaken. Perhaps I am mistaken about other things and will be corrected before I leave your shores."—Youth's Companion.

WITH HANDS DOWN

Were the Dollar Clause Councilmen Whipped.

CHALLIS ONLY ONE LEFT

There were two tired, disgusted members of society in the city Saturday night. Their heads were bowed in grief, and their weary frames shook with the force of their emotion. They had quaffed the sparkling liquid ever found in the cup of political preferment, and had been happy; but their ambition had prompted them to drink again. Then they had swallowed the cruel dregs of bitter disappointment. They are known to their friends as Stewart and Olnhausen, and they voted for dollar gas.

It was the logical outcome of the campaign. Weeks ago when the gas companies demanded the public to pay for what it would not receive, that same public, silent and patient in the past, began to murmur its dissent. At no time did it break out. It simply nursed its wrong, and when the time came went to the polls and voted as it had been thinking. There is another who should have been with his compatriots in defeat, but he succeeded in slipping through. By promises to support any movement to obtain any improvement for the East End he carried the first precinct of his ward, and is consequently numbered with the victors.

The story of the primaries is not hard to tell. The interest manifested in the campaign was sufficient during the last few days to bring out a big vote, but the miserable weather of Saturday damped the ardor of many a patriot, and he did not go to the polls. Consequently the vote was not as large as the candidates expected. It did not require much time to count out the result, and by 7:30 o'clock the crowd which filled Washington street in front of the News Review was reading from the table on the bulletin the vote cast for every candidate in every precinct. It was that good humored and at times enthusiastic crowd to be found on every election night at the same place, and it had come expecting to remain at least an hour longer, and its surprise was marked when the last figure was placed on the board. The News Review was heartily congratulated on every hand, and the crowd dwindled away, but other crowds came, and until late in the night the information was eagerly devoured.

The fight centered on council in all wards, because Challis, Stewart and Olnhausen, avowed advocates of the gas companies, sought renomination. They fought hard for place, but went down. George Peach, the pronounced opponent of the gas companies, won with a good margin in spite of the fact that he too had served in council. The other councilmen, Josiah T. Smith and William Cuthbert, are new candidates and against the dollar clause. The sentiment of the people is thus shown.

The East End vote saved Challis. The East End councilman was very angry when F. M. Albright was persuaded to withdraw his name from the ticket, and openly boasted that he would vote and work for Challis and against Candidate Morris, claiming that Morris wanted to get into council in order to advance his personal property interests. This was used as an argument against Morris, and the further statement made that Morris had acted the part of a non-union man during some of the labor troubles here. The strong cause of Challis' vote, however, in the East End, was the oft repeated claim, vehemently and persistently pushed forward, that Challis had always and ever voted for East End improvements. This feature in Challis apparently covered a multitude of sins and short-comings, as East End improvements are naturally very close to the heart of our pushing and energetic and wide-awake brethren of East End. The opponents of Mr. Challis promise to faithfully ventilate his record, and his various votes while in council.

The battle for three seats in the board of education did not attract much attention, although surprise was expressed when the result was announced. The new members are Rev. Dr. Taggart and J. H. Smith, while Walter B. Hill is already a member of the board.

Another contest which the prophets said a few days ago would be close was for justice of the peace, but the result shows that the prophets are entitled to another guess. Daniel McLane defeated Joseph P. Hanlon by the largest number of votes given a candidate who had an opponent.

The battle for constable extended through a few weeks, and the candidates worked hard. The fight was carried into every ward, but C. W. Powell was too much for L. L. Golden, and will fill the position for the next term.

In all wards except the Fourth there were a number of candidates for assessor, and consequently the usual number of surprises. Some candidates worked hard for victory.

One feature of the election was the number of Republican ladies who voted for candidates for the board of education. Three appeared and deposited their ballots in East End and one in West End, while in other voting precincts they made their presence known.

The number of voters who failed to mark their ballots according to law was not larger than usual, although some difficulty was experienced at more than one voting place. The total number of votes cast was 1,450.

BARNUM'S IS ANGLICIZED

Greatest Show on Earth Becomes English, You Know.

IS CAPITALIZED AT $2,000,000.

Show's Headquarters Are to Be Removed From Bridgeport to Stoke-on-Trent—Provincial Tours Will Be Made in 1899 and 1900—Tody Hamilton's Statement.

When the late Phineas Taylor Barnum took the smallest man on earth to England and introduced him to royalty and others, it never occurred to his fertile Connecticut mind to incorporate Tom Thumb there under the limited liability act as a permanent British institution. He brought him back, and Tom died an unadulterated American citizen. So did Barnum.

How different in the destiny of the Greatest Show on Earth, the enterprise which was the creation of Barnum's genius in its maturer phase, and constituted both his monument and his legacy to the great and gay American people!

We have before us the prospectus of Barnum & Bailey, limited, a company now being floated on the London market in the ordinary, that is to say, the non-Barnum, fashion. The Greatest Show on Earth is to be expatriated. Its headquarters are to be removed from Bridgeport, Conn., to Stoke-on-Trent. Its elephants are to become British elephants, its monkeys British monkeys, its simultaneous performances in four rings British performances in British rings, all capitalized at £400,000, in 400,000 shares of £1 each. The programme of its future operations ignores the continent which produced Barnum. Provincial tours in Albion are set down for 1899 and 1900. Then will occur a continental tour occupying at least two years. Nothing definite is said in the purely British prospectus of this now purely British grand aggregation of its return at any time to the shores where repose the bones of Barnum. As an American grand aggregation it has passed, perhaps forever, beneath the eastern horizon.

It is not surprising that the accomplished Mr. Tody Hamilton, whose soul stirring advertisements have appealed so often and never in vain to the imagination and the pockets of the American public, should attempt to break the force of this national misfortune by the statement with which he has favored us. We note a change already in Tody Hamilton's style. The tone is apologetic, not triumphant; the adjectives are at least three octaves under the old pitch, and—will it be believed?—he refers to Bridgeport as "Bridgeport, Conn., U. S. A." Tody's old American heart is not in this proclamation.

It is in vain that he attempts to dismiss cheerfully the sadder international aspects of the expatriation of the Greatest Show on Earth by calling it "the latest gift of America to England, adding another link to the friendly chain binding the two Anglo-Saxon countries together." It is in vain that Tody holds out this vague prospect:

"It is further stated that one of these days the big affair will revisit the land of the free and the brave, where the big show was born, reopen some fine spring day in Madison Square Garden and make the usual tour of the United States, but with an absolutely new, grand and most magnificent show, with every department augmented, with new animals, new acts, new attractions, new everything, to again capture the plaudits of the people of America and reinstate itself, once more in their hearts."

Pathetic indeed is this effort, coming as it does from one who was so recently at the head of his profession!

It only remains for the Wild West show to recognize at Berlin as the Mitbeschränkterhafnungsbildetewestlichweltgesellschaft, or something of that sort and to promise to reappear some in the United States "to again capture the plaudits of the people of America and reinstate itself once more in their hearts," with the Sioux braves all smoking long stemmed porcelain pipes and the Arapahoes slashing with blunt swords at each other's impulsive countenances under the rules obtaining just across the river from Heidelberg.—New York Sun.

and 500 men have been allowed for recruiting parties, recruits, etc. According to the final official figures the enlist-

Each artillery regiment will have 12 batteries of heavy artillery and two batteries of field artillery, 120 men to the battery, regimental noncommissioned staff 2, and band 28, a total of 1,710 enlisted men for each regiment of artillery. Each infantry regiment will consist of 1,344 men in the line, 6 regimental and battalion noncommissioned staff officers and 28 members of the regimental band, a total of 1,378 enlisted men in each infantry regiment. The battalion of engineers will have 752 enlisted men, the army service and band at United States Military Academy 250, the signal corps 720, the hospital corps 2,600, the ordnance department 605, commissary sergeants 100, post quartermaster sergeants 105, electrician sergeants 50, Indian scouts 75 and recruiting parties, recruits etc. 500. The totals and the distribution of the enlisted force are as follows:

Cavalry, 12,340; artillery, 11,970;

infantry, 34,450; total line of the army, including 752 men of the engineer battalion, 59,512; total staff departments, detachments, etc., 5,030. The 720 enlisted men of the signal corps will be divided as follows: One hundred first class sergeants, 200 sergeants, 50 corporals, 300 first class privates, 50 second class privates and 20 cooks. The enlisted strength of the hospital corps will consist of 175 hospital stewards, 325 acting stewards and 2,100 privates.

The regiments now in the Philippines, on their way to Manila or ordered to Manila will number 17,914 enlisted men when fully recruited in accordance with the apportionment contained in the statement approved recently.—New York Sun.

BARNUM'S IS ANGLICIZED

Greatest Show on Earth Becomes English, You Know.

IS CAPITALIZED AT $2,000,000.

Show's Headquarters Are to Be Removed From Bridgeport to Stoke-on-Trent—Provincial Tours Will Be Made in 1899 and 1900—Tody Hamilton's Statement.

When the late Phineas Taylor Barnum took the smallest man on earth to England and introduced him to royalty and others, it never occurred to his fertile Connecticut mind to incorporate Tom Thumb there under the limited liability act as a permanent British institution. He brought him back, and Tom died an unadulterated American citizen. So did Barnum.

How different in the destiny of the Greatest Show on Earth, the enterprise which was the creation of Barnum's genius in its mature phase, and constituted both his monument and his legacy to the great and gay American people!

We have before us the prospectus of Barnum & Bailey, limited, a company now being floated on the London market in the ordinary, that is to say, the non-Barnum, fashion. The Greatest Show on Earth is to be expatriated. Its headquarters are to be removed from Bridgeport, Conn., to Stoke-on-Trent. Its elephants are to become British elephants, its monkeys British monkeys, its simultaneous performances in four rings British performances in British rings, all capitalized at £400,000, in 400,000 shares of £1 each. The programme of its future operations ignores the continent which produced Barnum. Provincial tours in Albion are set down for 1899 and 1900. Then will occur a continental tour occupying at least two years. Nothing definite is said in the purely British prospectus of this now purely British grand aggregation of its return at any time to the shores where repose the bones of Barnum. As an American grand aggregation it has passed, perhaps forever, beneath the eastern horizon.

It is not surprising that the accomplished Mr. Tody Hamilton, whose soul stirring advertisements have appealed so often and never in vain to the imagination and the pockets of the American public, should attempt to break the force of this national misfortune by the statement with which he has favored us. We note a change already in Tody Hamilton's style. The tone is apologetic, not triumphant; the adjectives are at least three octaves under the old pitch, and—will it be believed?—he refers to Bridgeport as "Bridgeport, Conn., U. S. A." Tody's old American heart is not in this proclamation.

It is in vain that he attempts to dismiss cheerfully the sadder international aspects of the expatriation of the Greatest Show on Earth by calling it "the latest gift of America to England, adding another link to the friendly chain binding the two Anglo-Saxon countries together." It is in vain that Tody holds out this vague prospect:

"It is further stated that one of these days the big affair will revisit the land of the free and the brave, where the big show was born, reopen some fine spring day in Madison Square Garden and make the usual tour of the United States, but with an absolutely new, grand and most magnificent show, with every department augmented, with new animals, new acts, new attractions, new everything, to again capture the plaudits of the people of America and reinstate itself, once more in their hearts."

Pathetic indeed is this effort, coming as it does from one who was so recently at the head of his profession!

It only remains for the Wild West show to recognize at Berlin as the Mitheschränkerhafung gebildetewestliche Weltgesellschaft, or something of that sort and to promise to reappear some in the United States "to again capture the plaudits of the people of America and reinstate itself once more in their hearts," with the Sioux braves all smoking long stemmed porcelain pipes and the Arapahoes slashing with blunt swords at each other's impulsive countenances under the rules obtaining just across the river from Heidelberg. —New York Sun.

NEW REGULAR ARMY.

Distribution of the Enlisted Force in Cavalry, Infantry and Artillery.

Some changes have been made in the plans for the distribution of the enlisted strength of the new regular army among the several arms and staff departments, and the revised statement showing how many men will go to each was finally approved recently. In the table published the other day 2,700 men were given to the hospital corps. This has been reduced to 2,600 men. The electrician sergeants of artillery have been reduced by 25. No provision for the enlisted strength of the engineer department was contained in the published table. An allotment of men for the engineer battalion has now been added, and 500 men have been allowed for recruiting parties, recruits, etc. According to the final official figures the enlisted strength of the regular army will consist of 64,542 men, or 458 less than the maximum number of enlistments authorized by the reorganization law.

Each cavalry regiment will consist of 1,200 men in the line, six regimental and squadron noncommissioned staff officers and a band of 28, making the total number of enlisted men in each cavalry regiment 1,234. Each artillery regiment will have 12 batteries of heavy artillery and two batteries of field artillery, 120 men to the battery, regimental noncommissioned staff 2, and band 28, a total of 1,710 enlisted men for each regiment of artillery. Each infantry regiment will consist of 1,344 men in the line, 6 regimental and battalion noncommissioned staff officers and 28 members of the regimental band, a total of 1,378 enlisted men in each infantry regiment. The battalion of engineers will have 752 enlisted men, the army service and band at United States Military academy 250, the signal corps 720, the hospital corps 2,600, the ordnance department 605, commissary sergeants 100, post quartermaster sergeants 105, electrician sergeants 50, Indian scouts 75 and recruiting parties, recruits etc. 500. The totals and the distribution of the enlisted force are as follows:

Cavalry, 12,340; artillery, 11,970; infantry, 34,450; total line of the army, including 752 men of the engineer battalion, 59,512; total staff departments, detachments, etc., 5,030. The 720 enlisted men of the signal corps will be divided as follows: One hundred first class sergeants, 200 sergeants, 50 corporals, 300 first class privates, 50 second class privates and 20 cooks. The enlisted strength of the hospital corps will consist of 175 hospital stewards, 325 acting stewards and 2,100 privates.

The regiments now in the Philippines, on their way to Manila or ordered to Manila will number 17,914 enlisted men when fully recruited in accordance with the apportionment contained in the statement approved recently. —New York Sun.

NAVAL HERO OF MANILA.

Dewey as Seen by an Officer of the British Army.

HOW HE TALKS, ACTS AND WORKS.

Captain E. Fraser Dined and Talked with the Admiral on Board the Olympia—Fears That His Life May Not Long Bear the Strain—Stories of Dewey.

Captain E. Fraser of her majesty's imperial forces, who came to Vancouver recently, direct from Manila, was at the Philippine capital for a period of three weeks, during which time he saw much of Admiral Dewey, the great American naval strategist, and dined with him aboard the Olympia.

Like all English officers Captain Fraser is exceedingly conservative in all his opinions and statements. During a half hour's chat with Captain Fraser on the deck of the Empress of India, he reviewed the situation at Manila and the work of the man on whom the eyes of half the world are fixed. During the first week of his arrival at Manila Captain Fraser was introduced to Admiral Dewey by the British consul, and dined with him on the Olympia at the customary Saturday evening gathering. Speaking of this banquet, Captain Fraser said:

"It was a unique affair. Admiral Dewey occupied the seat of honor, but despite his effort at cheerfulness, appeared to me like a man on whom a deadly lethargy had fallen. His face was ashen and his skin seemed to be drawn over it like wrinkled parchment. His hair was white as snow and was thin and straggling, particularly over the forehead. As he nervously handled his wineglass, the contents of which I noticed, he scarcely touched, I could not help observing that his hand was thin and clawlike, the skin presenting the same unhealthy appearance as that upon the face.

"An officer sitting next to me said that the admiral had changed terribly in a few brief months and had lost nearly 20 pounds in weight. This same officer said that Dewey was about 60 years old. I thought I was looking at a man past threescore and ten. Of course, when I saw him then, it was after a fatiguing day's work in a broiling sun, and this may have accounted for his almost entire lack of energy and apparent indifference to the gay scene around him.

"An officer on the right of the admiral, whose name I forgot, took the part of chairman, and the usual toasts were right merrily made. The banquet broke up at an early hour, and we all, including the admiral, retired to the smoking room. It was while in this room that I had my chat with the great naval officer.

"He asked me a few questions about myself, and I hazarded some questions in return as to his health, the prospects of the close of the war and its ultimate result. He said that his health was none too robust, but that when at work he scarcely noticed his indisposition. Climatic influences, he said, were against his noble boys. 'It makes my heart bleed,' he said, 'when I see my men dying like dogs while waiting for some decisive action which I am sure will end this war as we would wish.' This was during the period of uncertainty at Washington.

"When I intimated as delicately as I could that possibly it would not be wise on his part to take a rest for a month or two in some less dangerous climate, he said almost roughly: 'Tut, tut, captain! My work is not finished here yet. It's at a stage when I believe no other man can handle it. If I thought otherwise, I should perhaps feel prompted to take a rest.'

"For a few brief minutes he talked animatedly on military life in India as I had experienced it, but collapsed like a man of straw before the time of breaking up. A respectful and, it seemed to me, almost pitying silence fell on the long room as he slowly rose and, bidding all a courteous and quiet good night, left, accompanied by his aid.

"Turning to an officer—I believe he was Lieutenant Smithson of San Francisco—I remarked on the admiral's enfeebled condition. He said: 'Yes, we have all noticed it, more particularly during the past month. Some of the boys say he never sleeps, and I verily believe it. I hope to God that the war will soon end or that it will at least get in such shape as to permit Admiral Dewey to take a rest. In his resting moments he appears to me like a man not long for this world.'

"During my stay at Manila," continued Captain Fraser, "I learned much about this remarkable man whose never ceasing activity is a marvel even to officers who have been with him for years. I was told that he rose with the sun and after a cold bath waded through piles of correspondence with his secretary. This strain was usually kept up till 8 a.m., when he took a light breakfast. At 9 a.m. he usually held an hour's consultation with his chief officers, and then came the terrible train of the day."

"The Olympia's largest steam launch was ordered out and, accompanied by a few officers, his tour of the fleet and harbor was made under the then trilling rays of the sun. This tour generally lasted till noon, when the return was made to the flagship for lunch. A rest of two hours followed, although the officers say the admiral never availed himself of this but worked over plans in his private cabin. At 2:30 his first visit was made to the shore, where unceasing work followed until dusk.

"Sometimes the admiral was induced to take a hand at whist when his return to the ship was made in the evening, but latterly he refused to join even in this recreation, and generally closeted himself with his private secretary until late at night. Six hours' hard work in a tropical climate is considered a good day's work. I was told on the best authority that Admiral Dewey works 16 hours a day. During the anticipated trouble with Germany he never slept for two days and two nights.

Everything, I was told, down to the minutest detail that went on in the fleet was personally supervised by Admiral Dewey. In the first big battle his foresight was simply marvelous. His thoroughness has resulted in wonderful success. As a naval strategist I, as a military man, can only class him with time honored heroes like Nelson and Drake."

Captain Fraser says that Dewey exercises a wonderful influence over every one with whom he comes in contact. He is fairly worshiped by the army and navy alike, and his appearance on shore always gives rise to an ovation. "I believe," he says, "that Admiral Dewey can thank his exceeding temperate habits for the fact that he is now alive. He smokes very little, drinks hardly anything and eats sparingly, his diet being chiefly fruits. In manner he appeared to me quiet, unassuming and always courteous. The terrible strain imposed on him makes him appear absorbed, but that he is not without humor may be judged from several anecdotes I heard in regard to him.

"About the end of January he was shown a copy of the Manila Times, with the following extract, translated from the Republica Filipina: 'A splendid demonstration of the Cavite women, without distinction of class or age, unanimously requested with enthusiasm to be permitted to take the place of the men if the men perish in the struggle against the Americans for the defense of the independence of the Philippines. They say that, irrespective of the weakness of their sex, love of their country will make them strong and will animate them to keen combat against the Americans.'

"Admiral Dewey laughed heartily when he read it and exclaimed to the officers around him, 'Boys, I will have to send all the single men on the fleet ashore to marry these women, or we are undone!' Then, turning to the chief officer of the Olympia, 'Kindly call for volunteers!' Shortly after it was announced that Hobson would join the forces at Manila the boast previously mentioned was made that the Cavite women would fight with the insurgents against the Americans. After reading the communication Admiral Dewey handed it to one of his officers with the dry remark: 'We won't have to leave here yet awhile. We'll put Hobson on shore duty at Cavite!'

Captain Fraser tells the following as told him by an officer who stood by Admiral Dewey when the incident occurred. During the fight when the insurgents were being mowed down after a particularly villainous attack on the Americans, Aguinaldo sent out a flag of truce. It was not a particularly clean flag, but a keen sighted man might have perceived that it was white or had been. Dewey's attention was drawn to it. Shading his eyes with his hand, he looked at it long and earnestly, and then turning to an officer said: 'I am told that I am getting old. I must be, as I can see no white flag.' The fight went on and resulted in the utter rout of the insurgents, who, without a moment's warning, had commenced it.

Captain Fraser in conclusion expressed the strongest admiration for Admiral Dewey.—Cor. New York World.

FASTEST BALLOON TRIP.

One Hundred Miles an Hour Made by Three Prussian Officers.

Three Prussian officers—Lieutenants Siegfeld, Hildebrandt and Harthausen—have made the swiftest balloon trip on record. Harthausen, a member of the ballooning department of the general staff, gave a thrilling description of his experience recently at Berlin.

"On the morning of March 3 we decided to ascend from Tempelhoferfeld. There was a strong, steady northwest wind. Our plan was to descend at Breslau, in Silesia, and be back in Berlin the same evening. We had an ordinary military balloon, but heavily ballasted as it was we shot up with fearful rapidity. The start was made at 12:10 p.m. The balloon rose along over the plain water of the Oder. You noticed speed when looking down on earth, but, looking up, there was no sense of motion whatever. You felt as if the balloon were hanging still in the sky.

"We swept over Breslau at a height of 4,000 feet in a little less than three hours. We made no attempt to descend, the wind being too strong. We were traveling at the rate of 68 miles an hour with an ease, a smoothness and delight which was a marvel even to us. The balloon was passed. The wind increased, and we determined to offer no resistance, but to turn our backs to it and let it carry us where it pleased. The balloon gradually rose, and at 3 o'clock we crossed the Austrian frontier at an elevation of 5,200 feet at terrific speed. We decided to sink the balloon and safely brought her to a standstill at the village of Baguska, in Galicia, 423 miles from Berlin as the crow flies, at 4 o'clock.

"This is the fastest balloon trip on record, the previous record being held by a pair of French aeronauts, who traveled four hours at 60 miles an hour." The feat has excited great interest in Berlin. The three officers were especially complimented by the kaiser—New York World.

ARCHBOLD VERY ANGRY.

He Abused the Ohio Attorneys—Flagg Gave Him Hot Shots In Return.

NEW YORK, March 20.—At the Standard Oil hearing Saturday vice president Archbold declared that the company was carrying out the Ohio law and was entirely disentangled from the trust.

At one point he turned to Attorney Flagg and said:

"You'd better be careful—I know you. I have something up my sleeve for you." After a little while Attorney General Monnett said:

"I object to the witness intimidating the attorney." Mr. Archbold laughed. "If there's anything up your sleeve we'd like to see it," Mr. Monnett continued.

"Oh, you'll see it soon enough," said Mr. Archbold.

Asked if the statement that the standard had burned 16 cases of books was true Mr. Archbold branded it as false and malicious.

Mr. Flagg interpolated something and Mr. Archbold shouted: "You keep still or I'll expose you right here."

"You expose," sneered Mr. Flagg. "You can't expose anything."

"You low-lived—" began Mr. Archbold.

"Can any one be low-lived?" asked Mr. Flagg. "in comparison with a Standard magnate? A decent man would be ashamed to walk up the street with you. You talk of me. You —— you ——

"You are a coward and a liar," shouted Mr. Archbold.

"You are a liar," responded Mr. Flagg promptly. "You are a coward and all your millions can't help you. If you can expose any one, do it now."

"You are a contemptible liar," retorted Mr. Archbold.

"Some one blackmailing you, I suppose. You are always claiming that," sneered Mr. Flagg.

Later on Mr. Archbold was asked regarding the burning of the books. He manifested much impatience and reluctance. Then a fresh storm broke out. Mr. Archbold began another tirade against Attorney General Monnett.

"This man," he said, "gives out false and malicious statements to such papers as will publish them. He got a lot of fellows of low station and semi-anarchists to furnish the testimony he wanted."

"Those low fellows were your own employees?" asked Mr. Monnett.

Mr. Archbold dodged the question. "I know one man was an anarchist," said Mr. Monnett.

"You know all about them," replied Mr. Archbold. "It was you who hired them."

That aroused the attorney general, who had so far kept his temper well.

"Do you mean to say," he demanded,

"that I hired a single man to give colored testimony?"

Two or three times he repeated this question, but Mr. Archbold did not reply.

LEVIED ON GOLD MINE TOOLS.

Carroll County Sheriff Acted on Judgment of East Liverpool Firm.

CARROLTON, March 20.—The smelters and tools at the alleged gold mine at Malvern are in the hands of the sheriff of Carroll county, who levied on them to satisfy a judgment of $500 obtained by Meredith & Co. of East Liverpool against the company recently organized to develop the alleged gold deposits.

It was recently announced that the development company would have a capital stock of $500,000, but so far as known none of the stock has been sold. The strike of gold bearing quartz has proven to be a myth.

Fire at Scio.

WHEELING, March 20.—The bursting of an oil tank on the lease of the Stark Oil company caused a fire at Scio, the booming oil town, Saturday night, that for a time threatened the entire village.

The property destroyed included the new Thompson hotel, 75 rooms, just finished and furnished; the residences of John Grace, Mary Scott and Maggie Scott, the tanks and derricks of the Stark Oil company and 11 horses belonging to various concerns. The loss will be in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Suicide's Body Unclaimed.

STEUBENVILLE, March 20.—No relatives appeared to claim the remains of Alvin Nurnberg, the Pittsburgher who died in the lockup here Saturday morning as a result of poison. A woman from Pittsburgh viewed the body to see if it was her husband, who deserted her five years ago, but it was not. She refused to give her name. Two local rabbis appeared and identified Nurnberg as one of their faith and said they would bury the body if no one claimed it.

Old Railroad Died.

CLEVELAND, March 20.—Orville B. Skinner, for several years traffic manager of the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis railroad, died at the age of 65 years.

A Vineland (N.J.) girl was frightenedly burned recently by the explosion of a coffee pot boiling on the stove.

Girls who have to stand on their feet most of the time work as hard as any day-laborer yet they do not get what is rightly called exercise. Close, confining, indoor occupation gives no exhilaration to the nervous system nor active circulation to the blood. It wears, tears and drags a woman's life away. The whole physical system grows sluggish and torpid under it.

No wonder so many sales girls and factory girls and housewives suffer from indigestion and constipation and bilious troubles. No wonder they are subject to the diseases of the delicate special organism of their sex. The wonder is rather that they can stand it as well as they do.

But "a poor weak woman," as she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most eminent medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N.Y. Occupying this position for thirty years he has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. His "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only permanent digestive and nutrient tonic. The two medicines taken alternately, form the most perfect and successful course of treatment ever prescribed for female troubles complicated with a sluggish, overwrought, nervous, diseased constitution. In severe constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be occasionally taken with the others. They never grip.

NAVAL HERO OF MANILA.

Dewey as Seen by an Officer of the British Army.

HOW HE TALKS, ACTS AND WORKS.

Captain E. Fraser Dined and Talked with the Admiral on Board the Olympia—Fears That His Life May Not Long Bear the Strain—Stories of Dewey.

Captain E. Fraser of her majesty's imperial forces, who came to Vancouver recently, direct from Manila, was at the Philippine capital for a period of three weeks, during which time he saw much of Admiral Dewey, the great American naval strategist, and dined with him aboard the Olympia.

Like all English officers, Captain Fraser is exceedingly conservative in all his opinions and statements. During a half hour's chat with Captain Fraser on the deck of the Empress of India, he reviewed the situation at Manila and the work of the man whom the eyes of half the world are fixed. During the first week of his arrival at Manila Captain Fraser was introduced to Admiral Dewey by the British consul, and dined with him on the Olympia at the customary Saturday evening gathering. Speaking of this banquet, Captain Fraser said:

"It was a unique affair. Admiral Dewey occupied the seat of honor, but despite his effort at cheerfulness, appeared to me like a man on whom a deadly lethargy had fallen. His face was ashen and his skin seemed to be drawn over it like wrinkled parchment. His hair was white as snow and was thin and straggling, particularly over the forehead. As he nervously handled his wineglass, the contents of which I noticed, he scarcely touched, I could not help observing that his hand was thin and clawlike, the skin presenting the same unhealthy appearance as that upon the face."

"An officer sitting next to me said that the admiral had changed terribly in a few brief months and had lost nearly 20 pounds in weight. This same officer said that Dewey was about 60 years old. I thought I was looking at a man past threescore and ten. Of course, when I saw him then, it was after a fatiguing day's work in a broiling sun, and this may have accounted for his almost entire lack of energy and apparent indifference to the gay scene around him."

"An officer on the right of the admiral, whose name I forgot, took the part of chairman, and the usual toasts were right merrily made. The banquet broke up at an early hour, and we all, including the admiral, retired to the smoking room. It was while in this room that I had my chat with the great naval officer."

"He asked me a few questions about myself, and I hazarded some questions in return as to his health, the prospects of the close of the war and its ultimate result. He said that his health was none too robust, but that when at work he scarcely noticed his indisposition. Climatic influences, he said, were against his noble boys. 'It makes my heart bleed,' he said, 'when I see my men dying like dogs while waiting for some decisive action which I am sure will end this war as we would wish. This was during the period of uncertainty at Washington.'

"For a few brief minutes he talked animatedly on military life in India as I had experienced it, but collapsed like a man of straw before the time of breaking up. A respectful and, it seemed to me, almost pitying silence fell on the long room as he slowly rose and, bidding all a courteous and quiet good night, left, accompanied by his aid."

"Turning to an officer—I believe he was Lieutenant Smithson of San Francisco—I remarked on the admiral's enfeebled condition. He said: 'Yes, we have all noticed it, more particularly during the past month. Some of the boys say he never sleeps, and I verily believe it. I hope to God that the war will soon end or that it will at least get in such shape as to permit Admiral Dewey to take a rest. In his resting moments he appears to me like a man not long for this world.'

"During my stay at Manila," continued Captain Fraser, "I learned much about this remarkable man whose never ceasing activity is a marvel even to officers who have been with him for years. I was told that he rose with the sun and after a cold bath waded through piles of correspondence with his secretary. This strain was usually kept up till 8 a.m., when he took a light breakfast. "The Olympia's largest steam launch was ordered out, and accompanied by a few officers, his tour of the fleet and harbor was made under the then blinding rays of the sun. This tour generally lasted till noon, when the return was made to the flagship for lunch. A rest of two hours followed, although the officers say the admiral never availed himself of this, but worked over plans in his private cabin. At 2:30 his first visit was made to the shore, where unceasing work followed until dusk."

"Sometimes the admiral was induced to take a hand at whist when his return to the ship was made in the evening, but latterly he refused to join even in this recreation, and generally closeted himself with his private secretary until late at night. Six hours' hard work in a tropical climate is considered a good day's work. I was told on the best authority that Admiral Dewey works 16 hours a day. Everything I was told, down to the minutest detail that went on in the fleet was personally supervised by Admiral Dewey. In the first big battle his foresight was simply marvelous. After reading the communication Admiral Dewey handed it to one of his officers with the dry remark: 'We won't have to leave here yet awhile. We'll put Hobson on shore duty at Cavite!'

Captain Fraser tells the following as told him by an officer who stood by Admiral Dewey when the incident occurred: During the fight when the insurgents were being mowed down after a particularly villainous attack on the Americans, Aguinaldo sent out a flag of truce. It was not a particularly clean flag, but a keen sighted man might have perceived that it was white or had been. Dewey's attention was drawn to it. Shading his eyes with his hand, he looked at it long and earnestly, and then turning to an officer said: 'I am told that I am getting old. I must be as I can see no white flag.' The fight went on and resulted in the utter rout of the insurgents, who, without a moment's warning, had commenced it.

Captain Fraser in conclusion expressed the strongest admiration for Admiral Dewey.—Cor. New York World.

RAVAL HERO OF MANILA.

Dewey as Seen by an Officer of the British Army.

HOW HE TALKS, ACTS AND WORKS.

Captain E. Fraser Dined and Talked with the Admiral on Board the Olympia—Fears That His Life May Not Long Bear the Strain—Stories of Dewey.

Captain E. Fraser of her majesty's imperial forces, who came to Vancouver recently, direct from Manila, was at the Philippine capital for a period of three weeks, during which time he saw much of Admiral Dewey, the great American naval strategist, and dined with him aboard the Olympia.

Like all English officers Captain Fraser is exceedingly conservative in all his opinions and statements. During a half hour's chat with Captain Fraser on the deck of the Empress of India, he reviewed the situation at Manila and the work of the man on whom the eyes of half the world are fixed. During the first week of his arrival at Manila Captain Fraser was introduced to Admiral Dewey by the British consul, and dined with him on the Olympia at the customary Saturday evening gathering. Speaking of this banquet, Captain Fraser said:

"It was a unique affair. Admiral Dewey occupied the seat of honor, but despite his effort at cheerfulness, appeared to me like a man on whom a deadly lethargy had fallen. His face was ashen and his skin seemed to be drawn over it like wrinkled parchment. His hair was white as snow and was thin and straggling, particularly over the forehead. As he nervously handled his wineglass, the contents of which I noticed, he scarcely touched, I could not help observing that his hand was thin and clawlike, the skin presenting the same unhealthy appearance as that upon the face.

"An officer sitting next to me said that the admiral had changed terribly in a few brief months and had lost nearly 20 pounds in weight. This same officer said that Dewey was about 60 years old. I thought I was looking at a man past threescore and ten. Of course when I saw him then, it was after a fatiguing day's work in a broiling sun, and this may have accounted for his almost entire lack of energy and apparent indifference to the gay scene around him.

"An officer on the right of the admiral, whose name I forgot, took the part of chairman, and the usual toasts were right merrily made. The banquet broke up at an early hour, and we all, including the admiral, retired to the smoking room. It was while in this room that I had my chat with the great naval officer.

"He asked me a few questions about myself, and I hazarded some questions in return as to his health, the prospects of the close of the war and its ultimate result. He said that his health was none too robust, but that when at work he scarcely noticed his indisposition. Climatic influences, he said, were against his noble boys. 'It makes my heart bleed,' he said, 'when I see my men dying like dogs while waiting for some decisive action which I am sure will end this war as we would wish. This was during the period of uncertainty at Washington.'

"For a few brief minutes he talked animatedly on military life in India as I had experienced it, but collapsed like a man of straw before the time of breaking up. A respectful and, it seemed to me, almost pitying silence fell on the long room as he slowly rose and, bidding all a courteous and quiet good night, left, accompanied by his aid.

"Turning to an officer—I believe he was Lieutenant Smithson of San Francisco—I remarked on the admiral's enfeebled condition. He said: 'Yes, we have all noticed it, more particularly during the past month. Some of the boys say he never sleeps, and I verily believe it. I hope to God that the war will soon end or that it will at least get in such shape as to permit Admiral Dewey to take a rest. In his resting moments he appears to me like a man not long for this world.'

"During my stay at Manila," continued Captain Fraser, "I learned much about this remarkable man whose never ceasing activity is a marvel even to officers who have been with him for years. I was told that he rose with the sun and after a cold bath waded through piles of correspondence with his secretary. This strain was usually kept up till 8 a.m., when he took a light breakfast. At 9 a.m. he usually held an hour's consultation with his chief officers, and then came the terrible strain of the day."

"The Olympia's largest steam launch was ordered out, and, accompanied by a few officers, his tour of the fleet and war was made under the then broiling rays of the sun. This tour generally lasted till noon, when the return was made to the flagship for lunch. A rest of two hours followed, although the officers say the admiral never availed himself of this, but worked over plans in his private cabin. At 2:30 his first visit was made to the shore, where unceasing work followed until dusk.

Everything, I was told, down to the minutest detail that went on in the fleet was personally supervised by Admiral Dewey. In the first big battle his foresight was simply marvelous. His thoroughness has resulted in wonderful success. As a naval strategist I, as a military man, can only class him with time honored heroes like Nelson and Drake."

Captain Fraser says that Dewey exercises a wonderful influence over everyone with whom he comes in contact. He is fairly worshiped by the army and navy alike, and his appearance on shore always gives rise to an ovation. "I believe," he says, "that Admiral Dewey can thank his exceeding temperate habits for the fact that he is now alive. He smokes very little, drinks hardly anything and eats sparingly, his diet being chiefly fruits. In manner he appeared to me quiet, unassuming and always courteous. The terrible strain imposed on him makes him appear absorbed, but that he is not without humor may be judged from several anecdotes I heard in regard to him.

"About the end of January he was shown a copy of the Manila Times, with the following extract, translated from the Republica Filipina: 'A splendid demonstration of the Cavite women, without distinction of class or age, unanimously requested with enthusiasm to be permitted to take the place of the men if the men perish in the struggle against the Americans for the defense of the independence of the Philippines. They say that, irrespective of the weakness of their sex, love of their country will make them strong and will animate them to keen combat against the Americans.'

"Admiral Dewey laughed heartily when he read it and exclaimed to the officers around him, 'Boys, I will have to send all the single men on the fleet ashore to marry these women, or we are undone!' Then, turning to the chief officer of the Olympia, 'Kindly call for volunteers.' Shortly after it was announced that Hobson would join the forces at Manila the boast previously mentioned was made that the Cavite women would fight with the insurgents against the Americans. After reading the communication Admiral Dewey handed it to one of his officers with the dry remark: 'We won't have to leave here yet awhile. We'll put Hobson on shore duty at Cavite!'

Captain Fraser tells the following as told him by an officer who stood by Admiral Dewey when the incident occurred: During the fight when the insurgents were being mowed down after a particularly villainous attack on the Americans Aguinaldo sent out a flag of truce. It was not a particularly clean flag, but a keen sighted man might have perceived that it was white or had been. Dewey's attention was drawn to it. Shading his eyes with his hand, he looked at it long and earnestly, and then turning to an officer said: 'I am told that I am getting old. I must be, as I can see no white flag.' The fight went on and resulted in the utter rout of the insurgents, who, without a moment's warning, had commenced it.

Captain Fraser in conclusion expressed the strongest admiration for Admiral Dewey.—Cor. New York World.

FASTEST BALLOON TRIP.

One Hundred Miles an Hour Made by Three Prussian Officers.

Three Prussian officers—Lieutenants Siegfeld, Hildebrandt and Harthausen—have made the swiftest balloon trip on record. Harthausen, a member of the ballooning department of the general staff, gave a thrilling description of his experience recently at Berlin.

"On the morning of March 3 we decided to ascend from Tempelhoferfeld. There was a strong, steady northwest. Our plan was to descend at Breslau, in Silesia, and be back in Berlin the same evening. We had an ordinary military balloon, but heavily ballasted, as it was we shot up with fearful rapidity.

The start was made at 12:10 p.m. The balloon tore along over the plain water bearing at the rate of 68 miles an hour with an ease, a smoothness and delight as if the balloon were hanging still in the sky.

"We swept over Breslau at a height of 4,000 feet in a little less than three hours. We made no attempt to descend.

14TH YEAR. NO. 239.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., MONDAY, MARCH 20, 1899.

TWO CENTS

PUNISHED THE REBELS.

Wheaton Retaliated For the Attack at Taguig.

ABOUT 200 FILIPINOS KILLED.

Americans Could Hardly Get Within 1,200 Yards of the Rebels—Laguna de Bay Almost Under Our Control—Pennsylvanians Were Attacked.

MANILA, March 20.—Some of the rebels recently expelled from Cavite and the small towns in the vicinity of Pasig combined forces and Saturday night—as already cabled—attacked a company of the Washington volunteers, a detached post at Taguig, about a mile and a half southeast of Pasig. General Wheaton immediately reinforced the Americans with two companies each of the Washington and the Oregon regiments. The post had held the enemy in check and the fire of the reinforcing companies repulsed them, driving them across to an island formed estuary. They were thus in front of the Twenty-second regulars.

On discovering that they were entrapped the rebels fought desperately, aided materially by the jungle and the darkness, but they were completely routed, with heavy loss, after two hours' fighting. The Americans lost two killed and 20 wounded, among the latter Lieutenant Frank Jones.

General Wheaton determined to punish the natives and at daybreak Sunday his brigade started in the following order:

The Sixth artillery holding the extreme right, the Oregon volunteers holding the center, the Washington regiment keeping to the edge of the lake and the Twenty-second regulars occupying the right of the line which swept the whole country along the lake in a southeasterly direction toward General Ovenshine's position. The line thus extending over two miles of country, rough and covered with thick jungle, advanced 11 miles. The enemy fled, the last of them being seen at 3:30 Sunday afternoon. At scarcely any time did the Americans get within 1,200 yards of them.

The troops were returning to Pasig last night exhausted by the hard work under a hot sun. The Oregon regiment had one man killed and four wounded and the Twenty-second regulars one wounded. According to the official reports no fewer than 200 Filipinos were killed.

General Otis says the American army and gunboats now command the lake. He estimates that property of the insurgents valued at $500,000 has been destroyed, while quantities of rice and sugar and 400 tons of coal, which is very valuable here, have been captured.

Many of the prisoners represented that the Filipino soldiers were weakening. The generous treatment that the Americans administer to the native prisoners and wounded seems to influence the insurgent army powerfully. In the opinion of the Americans, however, the Filipino leaders will continue to provoke fighting just as long as they can retain their hold upon their followers, because they have everything to gain and nothing to lose.

The enemy have twice as many men on their firing lines as they have arms, and the fact that so few arms are captured by the Americans is because the guns of the Filipinos and many of those who surrender are spirited away.

The armed tugs Laguna de Bay and Oeste have returned from San Pedro Macati and reported the result of their tour of the lake. On Friday morning last they shelled the town of Moreng, the rebels fleeing without making any response to the fire. The Americans landed a party which destroyed a quantity of stores and all the stone buildings except the church.

The expedition then proceeded to Ma-jayay, where a sugar mill and saw mill were destroyed.

On arriving at Santa Cruz, a town of 1,200 inhabitants, it was found that the enemy was strongly entrenched and prepared to defend the position, assisted by two gunboats and several launches. Moreover the mouth of the river was blocked with rocks and bamboo.

A few shells caused an exodus of the citizens, but not of the enemy's troops. The Americans did not attempt to land.

Captain Grant, who is in charge of the expedition, asked for reinforcements and will probably take Santa Cruz today.

The entire American force has been reorganized, two divisions of three brigades each being formed, General Lawton commanding one and General MacArthur another another.

An attack was made by the rebels Saturday upon the battery at Lamo church, but the enemy were repulsed by the Pennsylvanians with heavy loss. Lieutenant Thompson and Privates McVay and McCance of Company C were wounded.

A gunboat with a company of the Twenty-third regulars on was on the lake attacking small towns.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The war department received the following dispatch from Major General Otis regarding operations against the insurgents:

"MANILA, March 19.

To Adjutant General, Washington:

"Our improvised gunboats under Captain Grant, Utah artillery, have full possession of Laguna de Bay; troops, in habitants and property on shore of lake at our mercy. Wheaton brigade on Pasig river line drove enemy northeast into province Morong. Last evening attacked portion of his force south of Pasig, killing two men and wounding 20 of the Twenty-second infantry. This morning Wheaton moved against this insurgent force, driving it to the south 15 miles, experiencing very slight loss. Enemy left 200 dead on field. OTIS."

Arrived With Herschell's Body.

PORTSMOUTH, England, March 20.—The British cruiser Talbot, with the body of Lord Herschell on board, which sailed from New York on March 3, arrived here.

14 KILLED BY CYCLONE.

Eleven tenement houses were blown down and two negro boys were killed. Seventeen other negro tenants were injured.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 20.—Additional details of Saturday night's cyclone near Edwardsville, were received here. The following is a list of the dead:

HE SAW EMBALMED BEEF.

A Regular Soldier Told of It Being Brought to Tampa—Armour Employee Said So.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., March 20.—The army beef court of inquiry concluded the taking of testimony at Fort Leavenworth and departed for Chicago, where the sessions probably will be resumed today. The only witness examined Sunday was Sergeant Edward Mason, Troop A, First United States cavalry, located at Fort Robinson, Neb., who served as regimental commissary sergeant at Lakeland, Fla., and during the Cuban campaign.

Sergeant Mason's testimony was probably the most direct that has been adduced since the court left Chicago, witness declaring that meat received at Lakeland for use in his regiment was "undoubtedly chemically treated." "An agent of Armour & Co.," he said, "told me at the time that this meat had been treated with what was called preservative." Witness had refused to accept the meat.

Sergeant Mason was interrogated individually by each member of the court and could not be shaken in his testimony.

Sergeant Mason failed to reach the fort Saturday, which made it necessary to take Sunday testimony.

RIOT OF MEXICANS.

Objected to Moving Smallpox Patients to Pesthouse—Regular Troops Called Out.

LAREDO, Tex., March 20.—The work of removing smallpox patients to the pesthouse under direction of State Health Officer Blunt was begun. After ten had been removed the officers encountered on East Matamoras street a mob of several hundred Mexicans, who menaced them. Marshal Joe Barthelow and Assistant Marshal Idar hurried to the scene and attempted to arrest the leaders. They were assaulted with stones and fired upon. Idar was knocked down and severely beaten and one of the rioters was wounded. About 20 shots were fired. A dozen arrests were made and the mob dispersed.

The health officers resumed their work; but were soon set upon by another mob of 500 or 600 Mexicans, many of them armed. As they could not contend with this force the health officers desisted and Dr. Blunt opened telegraphic communication with Governor Sayers. The war department telegraphed authority to use troops at Fort McIntosh. The Mexicans were much excited and a fight was probable when the negro regulars arrive.

16 DEAD; 43 MISSING.

Windsor Hotel Fire Fatalities Appalling.

MEN WORKED ON THE RUINS.

Unable, However to Accomplish Much In the Way of Getting at the Burned Bodies—Services Over the Remains of Mrs. Leland and Daughter.

NEW YORK, March 20.—In a drizzling rain more than 200 men continued to work among the debris and smoldering ruins of the Windsor hotel searching for the bodies of those who perished in the flames and to recover any valuables that might have escaped the ravages of the fire. The efforts of the searchers were futile, however, as the ruins were too hot to permit much progress, and the smoke arising from the burning material was rendered more dense by the dampness of the atmosphere. At intervals during the night flames burst forth from the burning embers and drove back the workmen.

Work was begun to demolish the fragmentary portions of walls on the east and north sides of the burned building and later the number of workers was reinforced and the work of removing the rubbish pushed as vigorously as was practicable. Some of the men on a wall got off just in time, as a portion of it fell.

The known dead were:

Connolly, John, employee of Windsor hotel.

Flanagan, Kate, chambermaid of hotel.

Perfection in Baby Carriages.

SPECIAL FEATURES

LEWIS BROS.' SLEEPING COACH.

1---The Adjustable or Swinging Back,

Which can be instantly adjusted to any angle desired for reclining or sleeping, and forms, in connection with the seat or cushion, a complete bed, on which the baby can sleep as comfortably as in a cradle, and without the use of a pillow.

2---As a Sleeping Coach.

The "Excelsior" is unrivaled, and no Child's Carriage can be perfectly adapted to the various purposes it should serve, which cannot be readily converted into a "Sleeper." How often do we see children trundled along with heads nodding and pitching from one side to the other of the carriage, or sleeping in a most uncomfortable position? The "Excelsior" obviates all this. Whenever the child is inclined to sleep, the back can be let down in a moment, and the child at once placed in an easy position.

3---As an Invalid Carriage.

For sick or invalid children, nothing can be more complete than the "Excelsior Sleeping Coach."

4---As a Substitute for a Crib or Cradle.

For use in the house, the "Excelsior" will be found very satisfactory, and render the expense of such an article of furniture wholly unnecessary. The easy vertical motion which is given to the body of the carriage, mounted on our patent Star Gear, by a touch of the hand, will quiet the baby and put it to sleep.

5---The Adjustable Parasol or Canopy Holder.

By the use of which the child can be readily and perfectly protected from the sun or wind, in whatever position it may be. The holder has joints, so that the parasol may be carried upward or downward, or to either side, as may be required to suit any position desired.

WELDING OF COPPER.

Lost Secret Said to Have Been Discovered In St. Louis.

A young Norwegian working in a St. Louis machine shop claims to have discovered one of the lost arts, that of welding copper. The other day a specimen piece of welding was exhibited by C. W. Marshall of St. Louis, a friend of the young mechanic, who for the present withholds his name and the secret of his process.

He has been experimenting for five years and after almost giving up hit upon the idea accidentally. He was experimenting to temper copper, and in disgust threw a piece of the warm metal on the floor. When he picked it up, it was perfectly welded to a small piece of steel. The copper had been treated by a liquid not intended for the purpose, but which proved the material to render it possible to be welded.

He repeated the experiment several times, each time employing a larger piece of metal and meeting with the same success. He shows how the welding is accomplished in his little machine shop, but will not disclose the nature of the materials used until he has secured a patent on his secret. The specimen shown was perfect, the two metals apparently being drawn together with the solidity of one substance.—Chicago Times-Herald.

TOO BUSY JUST NOW

Doctor Taggart's Duties Will Not Permit Him

TO BE A SENATORIAL CANDIDATE

A Statement From the Venerable Pastor of the First U. P. Church In Answer to the Urgent Appeals of His Friends Throughout the County.

Rev. Dr. Taggart, of the First U. P. church of this place, announces that he will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for state senator.

During the past few months a number of the reverend gentleman's friends have been urging him to enter the field, knowing that his wide acquaintance throughout the district and his sterling worth as a man would gather votes to his standard without the formality of a hard fought campaign. A number of persons have urged the gentleman personally to become a candidate, and the expression on the street has been very much in his favor.

The gentleman today gave the NEWS REVIEW the following statement:

"In your paper of Saturday there is a brief editorial to the effect that many of my friends are urging me to be a candidate for nomination for state senator of this district.

"This is true and the reason for such solicitation is heartily appreciated by me. But to put an end to all such requests I wish to say that I cannot permit my name to be used in this connection. The reasons I gave, in a letter published some years ago for not being a candidate for this office, still remain.

"I am in sympathy with the desire to have some one nominated for this office who will better represent the temperance sentiment of this county and district than the present incumbent, who will likely be a candidate for re-nomination.

"If the senator is to come from this county this year it is to be hoped that there is enough temperance sentiment in the dominant party to secure the nomination of some one else than the man whose record in the last session of the senate showed himself to be the open and avowed friend of the liquor traffic.

"That some such candidate may be found and that this senatorial district, so largely temperance in its sentiment, may have a senator in the next assembly to fitly represent it is my earnest desire and hope."

"J. C. TAGGART."

NEW NAMES

Were Placed on the Democratic Ticket Late Saturday Night.

The Democratic committee composed of C. A. Leiter, R. J. Meakin, George D. Culbertson, J. J. Weisend and Colin McLean met Saturday evening at 9:30 in city hall in order to fill vacancies in the ticket.

The result of the Republican primaries was discussed and the resignation of J. M. McDole as a candidate for council in the Second ward was accepted. Isaac Jones also declined to make the run in the Fourth ward, and although Frank L. Fisher had objected at a former meeting to allow his name to be used he was placed on the ticket.

The committee decided to make a hard fight in the First and Fourth wards and think they have a chance of winning. They say Frank McHenry in the First ward will be able to defeat James Challis, but will leave no stone unturned to see that he is landed a winner. The committee will meet again Wednesday evening to appoint the judges and clerks of election.

BOATS WERE LATE

Because of the Storm on the River Yesterday.

The fierce snow and rain storms in this vicinity Saturday night and Sunday morning have interfered in no little degree with the navigation on the river. Some boats were caught in the storms at points down the river, but no serious accidents have been reported, all succeeding in safely gaining port.

The Dick Fulton and J. C. Risher went south yesterday, and the Sunday boats got up as usual, but were very late in arriving.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 10.6 feet and rising slowly.

MERCER WILL PITCH.

Washington Management Says He Is No Basement.

The management of the Washington team has at last awakened to the fact that Winnie Mercer is not a third base.

man, and Sporting Life this week says: "Tom Brown does not believe that Mercer will be a success as a third baseman. In Brown's opinion Mercer has no value to a team outside the pitcher's box. Manager Irwin seems to have arrived at the same conclusion, as he announces that Mercer will be used only as pitcher."

NOISY.

A Few Fights Broke the Monotony Saturday Night.

The primary election Saturday evening seemed to have an unusual influence on a number of people and the drunks on the streets were numerous.

Late in the night a fight took place at the corner of Broadway and Sixth street, and a few minutes later another one was in progress in the Diamond. The combatants were separated before anyone was seriously injured. There were no arrests.

THE SOLICITORS' OPINION

Will Be Heard at the Board of Education Meeting.

The board of education will meet in regular session tonight in the director's room of the Central school. Only one committee is to report, that appointed at the last meeting to confer with City Solicitor McGarry as to the new school limit.

A RECEPTION

To Be Tendered Officers and New Members.

The Endeavor society of the First Presbyterian church will give a social Friday evening. The new members of the church and the newly elected officers of the society will be received. An elaborate program is being arranged.

And the stage settings alone in the way of rugs and portiers, bric-a-brac and medallions amount in value alone to over $2,000. A large bill of vaudeville will be presented between the acts; no stops, no waits, making practically two shows in one or a continuous show. The Monday evening drama is the most successful society comedy, "The Witch of Wall Street." A lady will be admitted free when accompanied by a paid 30 cent ticket.

TOSSSED UP A COPPER

To Decide the Nominee for City Solicitor.

CLOSE CONTEST QUICKLY SETTLED

Connell and Ferrall Each Received the Same Number of Votes for City Solicitor of Lisbon—Much Interest Manifested at the Primaries Saturday.

LISBON, March 20.—[Special]—As much interest was manifested in the Republican primary election for borough and township offices Saturday afternoon as is usual at a state election, and a large vote was polled—1,040 on the township ticket. The most exciting contest was between Geo. T. Ferrall and Chas. C. Connell for city solicitor, and when the vote was counted the result was a tie. They then flipped coppers to decide the contest, and Connell won. That is about the manner in which a great many voters decided to vote. The borough ticket is as follows:

Solicitor, C. C. Connell; treasurer, W. H. Hepburn; council, Charles W. Huston, William M. Hostetter, C. M. Lindsay and P. M. Armstrong; water trustee, C. H. Baker; cemetery trustee, B. S. Young. Township—Clerk, Chas. C. Green; treasurer, W. H. Hepburn; trustee, Peter Davis; assessors, F. R. Sherbine and A. W. H. Martin.

AGED WOMEN'S SCRAP WITH A POSSUM.

Mrs. A. Doolittle, an aged lady of Streetboro township, O., who lives alone, heard a fearful uproar in her chicken house late the other night. She arose, grabbed a poker and started for the scene. She was convinced that some wild animal was among the chickens, judging from the noise, but was unable to distinguish it in the dark. She struck at the animal when it sprang at her. A fierce battle ensued, lasting fully a half hour, during which the aged lady was terribly lacerated about the face, hands and body, and part of her clothing was torn off. She found her way to her house, where neighbors discovered her the next morning. Near the chicken house was found a huge opossum lying dead in the mud and snow. Mrs. Doolittle is 86 years of age, and her condition is serious.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

ICE FLOES PASSING NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans recently witnessed one of the novel features of the late unpreceded cold spell—ice floes floating by the city. For some weeks past we have heard of a great deal of ice in the river above. There was an ice gorge at Vicksburg and so much ice in the river at Plaquemine as to make it dangerous to go about in a skiff there. About daylight the other day this ice began passing New Orleans, kept up all day and the entire central channel was filled with large floes of ice, many feet in length and apparently deep in the river. Ice has floated by New Orleans on several occasions in the past, but never before like this, and the wharfs were crowded with thousands of people to see a phenomenon never seen here before and never likely to be seen again.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

INDIANA has enacted an anti-lynching law. Ohio already has one, but it is as useless as if it had never been passed.

FOR the first time in the memory of man the first precinct of the Fourth ward was the first to count and report its vote last Saturday night. It is usually the last.

THREE of the four candidates for county, nominated at the Republican primaries, are opposed to the dollar clause. The people of East Liverpool have no desire to pay for something they do not receive.

JIMMY RICK, the Canton Democrat who has his eye upon the gubernatorial nomination, has been in Washington calling on John R. McLean. That is good Democratic politics, provided McLean agreed to open his barrel, since it is conceded that gold, silver and green-backs are going to talk in Democratic politics this year.

RELIABLE COUNCILMEN.

The citizens at large demand that city council shall be composed of men in whom confidence can be placed—men who are honest, truthful and conscientious, and who will legislate for the best interests of the masses. Evils may be endured for a time; but the reckoning comes at last. Men may boast that they have the ballots of the people subject to their order, and seem to think that cunning and misrepresentation will win. Such boasters will have a rude awakening, and not only their tools and creatures will go down in the storm, but they themselves will be lost in the wreckage.

CROKER AND BRYAN.

Democracy is certainly in a bad way if it must put its faith to Croker or Bryan. As leaders these men are not what patriotic Americans desire. The Tammany boss, with his rough shod methods and iron determination is not a good man to place at the head of a great political organization. He would provide well for his friends, but the history of New York will show what he would do for the people in general. Colonel Bryan is equally without recommendation. He, too, is a politician with a great and burning love in his breast for himself. Since his defeat by William McKinley he has been a candidate for the next gathering of his party to consider. He became a soldier because he knew all Americans respected soldiers, and he gave up his command because he saw he could advance his interests as a candidate much better in the role of a private citizen. There was no thought of patriotism in Colonel Bryan's action, yet he knew there was work for the volunteer army before it disbanded. Take both of them. Put Croker beside Bryan, and look them over well. Selfishness, the advancement of their individual interests, seems foremost in the mind of each. Neither would be a good man to place at the head of the government.

IN THE CHURCHES.

A Number of New Members Were Received.

The services at the First Presbyterian church last evening were not largely attended, owing to the inclement weather.

Dr. John Lloyd Lee preached an eloquent sermon from the subject:

"After the Victory, What?"

The choir rendered a very pleasing selection,

the duet sung by Misses Baxter and James being very beautiful.

Prof. Laughlin and Mr. Stoddard sang a very pretty duet.

At the morning service a number of persons were added to the church roll.

Rev. C. F. Swift, of the Methodist

Protestant church, in his sermon last evening said: "In the days of Paul and

Timothy, the same as today, ignorance

and inactivity have been the great

sources of sin and failure, and as far as men have been lifted into knowledge so far clouds of darkness and evil have been scattered.

We often point the finger of condemnation at a person in stead of extending the hand of sympathy.

If you have been blest above others in knowledge and power then let out such

Five persons was added to the Christian church at the service last evening.

The special services will be continued

this week.

Doctor Crawford occupied the pulpit

at the First M. E. church yesterday. The attendance in the evening was large, and the sermon excellent.

Fannie E. Bryan called at the office Squire Rose Saturday evening, and after whispering a few words to that official sat down to wait developments. Meantime the squire had secured a marriage license, and upon the arrival of the young man the ceremony was performed.

angry when F. M. Albright was persuaded to withdraw his name from the ticket, and openly boasted that he would vote and work for Challis and against Candidate Morris, claiming that Morris wanted to get into council in order to advance his personal property interests. This was used as an argument against Morris, and the further statement made that Morris had acted the part of a non-union man during some of the labor troubles here. The strong cause of Challis' vote, however, in the East End, was the oft repeated claim, vehemently and persistently pushed forward, that Challis had always and ever voted for East End improvements. This feature in Challis apparently covered a multitude of sins and short-comings, as East End improvements are naturally very close to the heart of our pushing and energetic and wide-awake brethren of East End. The opponents of Mr. Challis promise to faithfully ventilate his record, and his various votes while in council.

The battle for three seats in the board of education did not attract much attention, although surprise was expressed when the result was announced. The new members are Rev. Dr. Taggart and J. H. Smith, while Walter B. Hill is already a member of the board.

Another contest which the prophets said a few days ago would be close was for justice of the peace, but the result shows that the prophets are entitled to another guess. Daniel McLane defeated Joseph P. Hanlon by the largest number of votes given a candidate who had an opponent.

The battle for constable extended through a few weeks, and the candidates worked hard. The fight was carried into every ward, but C. W. Powell was too much for L. L. Golden, and will fill the position for the next term.

In all wards except the Fourth there were a number of candidates for assessor, and consequently the usual number of surprises. Some candidates worked hard for victory.

One feature of the election was the number of Republican ladies who voted for candidates for the board of education. Three appeared and deposited their ballots in East End and one in West End, while in other voting precincts they made their presence known.

The number of voters who failed to mark their ballots according to law was not larger than usual, although some difficulty was experienced at more than one voting place. The total number of votes cast was 1,450.

SING SING, N. Y., March 20.—[Special]—Mrs. Martha Place was executed in the prison this morning for the murder of her step-daughter.

Attended Conference.

Rev. C. F. Swift, of Fourth street, was in Pittsburgh today, attending a conference of ministers of the Methodist Protestant church of this district. The meeting is held every month for the purpose of discussing church work.

Woman's Relief corps reception, Grand Army room, Exchange block, tomorrow night, to pay for new carpet. Every body invited.

WITH HANDS DOWN

Were the Dollar Clause Council-men Whipped.

of the Crowd Who Sought Re-Election on the Main Issue—Doctor Taggart and Mr. Smith Are New Members of the School Board—A Few Women Went to the Polls. It Was Not an Exciting Afternoon, but an Enthusiastic Crowd Read the News Review Bulletins.

There were two tired, disgusted members of society in the city Saturday night. Their heads were bowed in grief, and their weary frames shook with the force of their emotion. They had quaffed the sparkling liquid ever found in the cup of political preferment, and had been happy; but their ambition had prompted them to drink again. Then they had swallowed the cruel dregs of bitter disappointment. They are known to their friends as Stewart and Olnhausen, and they voted for dollar gas.

It was the logical outcome of the campaign. Weeks ago when the gas companies demanded the public to pay for what it would not receive, that same public, silent and patient in the past, began to murmur its dissent. At no time did it break out. It simply nursed its wrong, and when the time came went to the polls and voted as it had been thinking. There is another who should have been with his compatriots in defeat, but he succeeded in slipping through. By promises to support any movement to obtain any improvement for the East End he carried the first precinct of his ward, and is consequently numbered with the victors.

The story of the primaries is not hard to tell. The interest manifested in the campaign was sufficient during the last few days to bring out a big vote, but the miserable weather of Saturday damped the ardor of many a patriot, and he did not go to the polls. Consequently the vote was not as large as the candidates expected. It did not require much time to count out the result, and by 7:30 o'clock the crowd which filled Washington street in front of the News Review was reading from the table on the bulletin the vote cast for every candidate in every precinct. It was that good humored and at times enthusiastic crowd to be found on every election night at the same place, and it had come expecting to remain at least an hour longer, and its surprise was marked when the last figure was placed on the board. The News Review was heartily congratulated on every hand, and the crowd dwindled away, but other crowds came, and until late in the night the information was eagerly devoured.

The fight centered on council in all wards, because Challis, Stewart and Olnhausen, avowed advocates of the gas companies, sought renomination. They fought hard for place, but went down. George Peach, the pronounced opponent of the gas companies, won with a good margin in spite of the fact that he too had served in council. The other councilmen, Josiah T. Smith and William Cuthbert, are new candidates and against the dollar clause. The sentiment of the people is thus shown.

The East End vote saved Challis. The East End councilman was very angry when F. M. Albright was persuaded to withdraw his name from the ticket, and openly boasted that he would vote and work for Challis and against Candidate Morris, claiming that Morris wanted to get into council in statement made that Morris had acted strong cause of Challis' vote, however, in the East End, was the oft repeated claim, vehemently and persistently pushed forward, that Challis had always ments. This feature in Challis apparently covered a multitude of sins and ments are naturally very close to the

BARNUM'S IS ANGLICIZED

Greatest Show on Earth Becomes English, You Know.

IS CAPITALIZED AT $2,000,000.

Show's Headquarters Are to Be Removed From Bridgeport to Stoke-on-Trent—Provincial Tours Will Be Made in 1899 and 1900—Tody Hamilton's Statement.

When the late Phineas Taylor Barnum took the smallest man on earth to England and introduced him to royalty and others, it never occurred to his ferocious Connecticut mind to incorporate Tom Thumb there under the limited liability act as a permanent British institution. He brought him back, and Tom died an unadulterated American citizen. So did Barnum.

How different in the destiny of the Greatest Show on Earth, the enterprise which was the creation of Barnum's genius in its mature phase, and constituted both his monument and his legacy to the great and gay American people!

We have before us the prospectus of Barnum & Bailey, limited, a company now being floated on the London market in the ordinary, that is to say, the non-Barnum, fashion. The Greatest Show on Earth is to be expatriated. Its headquarters are to be removed from Bridgeport, Conn., to Stoke-on-Trent. Its elephants are to become British elephants, its monkeys British monkeys, its simultaneous performances in four rings British performances in British rings, all capitalized at £400,000, in 400,000 shares of £1 each. The programme of its future operations ignores the continent which produced Barnum. Provincial tours in Albion are set down for 1899 and 1900. Then will occur a continental tour occupying at least two years. Nothing definite is said in the purely British prospectus of this now purely British grand aggregation of its return at any time to the shores where repose the bones of Barnum. As an American grand aggregation it has passed, perhaps forever, beneath the eastern horizon.

It is not surprising that the accomplished Mr. Tody Hamilton, whose soul stirring advertisements have appealed so often and never in vain to the imagination and the pockets of the American public, should attempt to break the force of this national misfortune by the statement with which he has favored us. We note a change already in Tody Hamilton's style. The tone is apologetic, not triumphant; the adjectives are at least three octaves under the old pitch, and—will it be believed?—he refers to Bridgeport as "Bridgeport, Conn., U. S. A." Tody's old American heart is not in this proclamation.

It is in vain that he attempts to dismiss cheerfully the sadder international aspects of the expatriation of the Greatest Show on Earth by calling it "the latest gift of America to England, adding another link to the friendly chain binding the two Anglo-Saxon countries together." It is in vain that Tody holds out this vague prospect: "It is further stated that one of these days the big affair will revisit the land of the free and the brave, where the big show was born, reopen some fine spring day in Madison Square Garden and make the usual tour of the United States, but with an absolutely new, grand and most magnificent show, with every department augmented, with new animals, new acts, new attractions, new everything, to again capture the plaudits of the people of America and reinstate itself, once more in their hearts."

Pathetic indeed is this effort, coming as it does from one who was so recently at the head of his profession! It only remains for the Wild West show to recognize at Berlin as the Mitbeschränkterhafnungungebildetw-estlicheweltgesellschaft, or something of that sort and to promise to reappear some in the United States "to again capture the plaudits of the people of America and reinstate itself once more in their hearts."

Ludlow Tired of Havana.

HAVANA, March 20.—Major General Ludlow, military governor of the department of Havana, desires to be relieved of his duties and to go to the Philippines. It is understood that he has applied to the war department for a transfer and strenuously urged that it be made. He is weary of the details of city administration.

Mrs. Place's Last Sunday.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Mrs. Martha Place's last Sunday on earth was spent in her cell at Sing Sing prison reading her Bible. She ate hearty meals and displayed no signs of breaking down. No one except the sheriff knows at what hour she will be led to the electric chair.

Some changes have been made in the plans for the distribution of the enlisted strength of the new regular army among the several arms and staff departments, and the revised statement showing how many men will go to each was finally approved recently. In the table published the other day 2,700 men were given to the hospital corps. This has been reduced to 2,600 men. The electrician sergeants of artillery have been reduced by 25. No provision for the enlisted strength of the engineer department was contained in the published table. An allotment of men for the engineer battalion has now been added, and 500 men have been allowed for recruiting parties, recruits, etc. According to the final official figures the enlisted strength of the regular army will consist of 64,542 men, or 458 less than the maximum number of enlistments authorized by the reorganization law.

Each cavalry regiment will consist of 1,200 men in the line, six regimental and squadron noncommissioned staff officers and a band of 28, making the total number of enlisted men in each cavalry regiment 1,234. ## NAVAL HERO OF MANILA.

Dewey as Seen by an Officer of the British Army.

BOW HE TALKS, ACTS AND WORKS.

Captain E. Fraser Dined and Talked with the Admiral on Board the Olympia—Fears That His Life May Not Long Bear the Strain—Stories of Dewey.

Captain E. Fraser of her majesty's imperial forces, who came to Vancouver recently, direct from Manila, was at the Philippine capital for a period of three weeks, during which time he saw much of Admiral Dewey, the great American naval strategist, and dined with him aboard the Olympia.

Like all English officers Captain Fraser is exceedingly conservative in all his opinions and statements. During a half hour's chat with Captain Fraser on the deck of the Empress of India, he reviewed the situation at Manila and the work of the man on whom the eyes of half the world are fixed. During the first week of his arrival at Manila Captain Fraser was introduced to Admiral Dewey by the British consul, and dined with him on the Olympia at the customary Saturday evening gathering speaking of this banquet, Captain Fraser said:

"It was a unique affair. Admiral Dewey occupied the seat of honor, but despite his effort at cheerfulness, appeared to me like a man on whom a deadly lethargy had fallen. His face was ashen and his skin seemed to be drawn over it like wrinkled parchment. His hair was white as snow and was thin and straggling, particularly over the forehead. As he nervously handled his wineglass, the contents of which I noticed, he scarcely touched, I could not help observing that his hand was thin and clawlike, the skin presenting the same unhealthy appearance as that upon the face."

"An officer sitting next to me said that the admiral had changed terribly in a few brief months and had lost nearly 20 pounds in weight. This same officer said that Dewey was about 60 years old. I thought I was looking at a man past threescore and ten. Of course, when I saw him then, it was after a fatiguing day's work in a broiling sun, and this may have accounted for his almost entire lack of energy and apparent indifference to the gay scene around him."

"An officer on the right of the admiral, whose name I forgot, took the part of chairman, and the usual toasts were right merrily made. The banquet broke up at an early hour, and we all, including the admiral, retired to the smoking room. It was while in this room that I had my chat with the great naval officer."

"He asked me a few questions about myself, and I hazarded some questions in return as to his health, the prospects of the close of the war and its ultimate result. He said that his health was none too robust, but that when at work he scarcely noticed his indisposition. Climatic influences, he said, were against his noble boys. 'It makes my heart bleed,' he said, 'when I see my men dying like dogs while waiting for some decisive action which I am sure will end this war as we would wish. This was during the period of uncertainty at Washington.'

"For a few brief minutes he talked animatedly on military life in India as I had experienced it, but collapsed like a man of straw before the time of breaking up. A respectful and, it seemed to me, almost pitying silence fell on the long room as he slowly rose and, bidding all a courteous and quiet good night, left, accompanied by his aid."

"Turning to an officer—I believe he was Lieutenant Smithson of San Francisco—I remarked on the admiral's enfeebled condition. He said: 'Yes we have all noticed it, more particularly during the past month. Some of the boys say he never sleeps, and I verily believe it. I hope to God that the war will soon end or that it will at least get in such shape as to permit Admiral Dewey to take a rest. In his resting moments he appears to me like a man not long for this world.'

"During my stay at Manila," continued Captain Fraser, "I learned much about this remarkable man whose never ceasing activity is a marvel even to officers who have been with him for years. I was told that he rose with the sun and after a cold bath waded through piles of correspondence with his secretary. This strain was usually kept up till 8 a.m., when he took a light breakfast. At 9 a.m. he usually held an hour's consultation with his chief officers, and then came the terrible strain of the day."

"The Olympia's largest steam launch was ordered out, and accompanied by a few officers, his tour of the fleet and harbor was made under the then broiling rays of the sun. This tour generally lasted till noon, when the return was made to the flagship for lunch. A rest of two hours followed, although the officers say the admiral never availed himself of this, but worked over plans in his private cabin. At 2:30 his first visit was made to the shore, where unceasing work followed until dusk.

"Sometimes the admiral was induced to take a hand at whist when his return to the ship was made in the evening, but latterly he refused to join even in this recreation, and generally closeted himself with his private secretary until late at night. Six hours' hard work in a tropical climate is considered a good day's work. I was told on the best authority that Admiral Dewey works 16 hours a day. During the anticipated trouble with Germany he never slept for two days and two nights."

Everything, I was told, down to the minutest detail that went on in the fleet was personally supervised by Admiral Dewey. In the first big battle his foresight was simply marvelous. His thoroughness has resulted in wonderful success. As a naval strategist I, as a military man, can only class him with time honored heroes like Nelson and Drake."

Captain Fraser says that Dewey exercises a wonderful influence over every one with whom he comes in contact. He is fairly worshiped by the army and navy alike, and his appearance on shore always gives rise to an ovation. "I believe," he says, "that Admiral Dewey can thank his exceeding temperate habits for the fact that he is now alive. He smokes very little, drinks hardly anything and eats sparingly, his diet being chiefly fruits. In manner he appears to me quiet, unassuming and always courteous. The terrible strain imposed on him makes him appear absorbed, but that he is not without humor may be judged from several anecdotes I heard in regard to him."

"About the end of January he was shown a copy of the Manila Times, with the following extract, translated from the Republica Filipina: 'A splendid demonstration of the Cavite women, without distinction of class or age, unanimously requested with enthusiasm to be permitted to take the place of the men if the men perish in the struggle against the Americans for the defense of the independence of the Philippines. They say that, irrespective of the weakness of their sex, love of their country will make them strong and will animate them to keen combat against the Americans.'

"Admiral Dewey laughed heartily when he read it and exclaimed to the officers around him, 'Boys, I will have to send all the single men on the fleet ashore to marry these women, or we are undone!' Then, turning to the chief officer of the Olympia, 'Kindly call for volunteers!' Shortly after it was announced that Hobson would join the forces at Manila the boast previously mentioned was made that the Cavite women would fight with the insurgents against the Americans. After reading the communication Admiral Dewey handed it to one of his officers with the dry remark: 'We won't have to leave here yet awhile. We'll put Hobson on shore duty at Cavite!'

Captain Fraser tells the following as told him by an officer who stood by Admiral Dewey when the incident occurred. During the fight when the insurgents were being mowed down after a particularly villainous attack on the Americans Aguinaldo sent out a flag of truce. It was not a particularly clean flag, but a keen sighted man might have perceived that it was white or had been. Dewey's attention was drawn to it. Shading his eyes with his hand, he looked at it long and earnestly, and then turning to an officer said: 'I am told that I am getting old. I must be, as I can see no white flag.' The fight went on and resulted in the utter rout of the insurgents, who, without a moment's warning, had commenced it.

Captain Fraser in conclusion expressed the strongest admiration for Admiral Dewey.—Cor. New York World.

FASTEST BALLOON TRIP.

One Hundred Miles an Hour Made by Three Prussian Officers.

Three Prussian officers—Lieutenants Siegsfeld, Hildebrandt and Harthausen—have made the swiftest balloon trip on record. Harthausen, a member of the ballooning department of the general staff, gave a thrilling description of his experience recently at Berlin.

"On the morning of March 8 we decided to ascend from Templehoferfeld. There was a strong, steady northwest wind. Our plan was to descend at Breslau, in Silesia, and be back in Berlin the same evening. We had an ordinary military balloon, but heavily ballasted as it was shot up with fearful rapidity. The start was made at 12:10 p.m. The balloon tore along over the plain watered by the Oder. You noticed speed when looking down on earth, but, looking upward, there was no sense of motion whatever. You felt as if the balloon were hanging still in the sky."

"We swept over Breslau at a height of 4,000 feet in a little less than three hours. We made no attempt to descend, the wind being too strong. We were traveling at the rate of 68 miles an hour with an ease, a smoothness and delight which is exhilarating impossible to describe. Breslau was passed. The wind increased, and we determined to offer no resistance, but to turn our backs to it and let it carry us where it pleased. The balloon gradually rose, and at 3 o'clock we crossed the Austrian frontier at an elevation of 5,200 feet at terrific speed. We decided to sink the balloon and safely brought her to a standstill at the village of Baguska, in Galicia, 423 miles from Berlin as the crow flies, at 4 o'clock.

"This is the fastest balloon trip on record, the previous record being held by a pair of French aeronauts, who traveled four hours at 60 miles an hour." The feat has excited great interest in Berlin. The three officers were especially complimented by the kaiser—New York World.

ARCHBOLD VERY ANGRY.

He Abused the Ohio Attorneys—Flagg Gave Him Hot Shots In Return.

NEW YORK, March 20.—At the Standard Oil hearing Saturday vice president Archbold declared that the company was carrying out the Ohio law and was entirely disentangled from the trust.

At one point he turned to Attorney Flagg and said:

"You'd better be careful—I know you. I have something up my sleeve for you." After a little while Attorney General Monnett said:

"I object to the witness intimidating the attorney." Mr. Archbold laughed. "If there's anything up your sleeve we'd like to see it," Mr. Monnett continued.

"Oh, you'll see it soon enough," said Mr. Archbold.

Asked if the statement that the standard had burned 16 cases of books was true Mr. Archbold branded it as false and malicious.

Mr. Flagg interpolated something and Mr. Archbold shouted: "You keep still or I'll expose you right here."

"You expose," sneered Mr. Flagg.

"You can't expose anything."

"You low-lived—" began Mr. Archbold.

"Can any one be low-lived?" asked Mr. Flagg, "in comparison with a Standard magnate? A decent man would be ashamed to walk up the street with you. You talk of me. You ——, you ——."

"You are a coward and a liar," shouted Mr. Archbold.

"You are a liar," responded Mr. Flagg promptly. "You are a coward and all your millions can't help you. If you can expose any one, do it now."

"You are a contemptible liar," retorted Mr. Archbold.

"Some one blackmailing you, I suppose. You are always claiming that," sneered Mr. Flagg.

Later on Mr. Archbold was asked regarding the burning of the books. He manifested much impatience and reluctance. Then a fresh storm broke out. Mr. Archbold began another tirade against Attorney General Monnett.

"This man," he said, "gives out false and malicious statements to such papers as will publish them. He got a lot of fellows of low station and semi-anarchists to furnish the testimony he wanted."

"Those low fellows were your own employees?" asked Mr. Monnett.

Mr. Archbold dodged the question. "I know one man was an anarchist," said Mr. Monnett.

"You know all about them," replied Mr. Archbold. "It was you who hired them."

That aroused the attorney general, who had so far kept his temper well. "Do you mean to say?" he demanded, "that I hired a single man to give colored testimony?"

Two or three times he repeated this question, but Mr. Archbold did not reply.

LEVIED ON GOLD MINE TOOLS.

Carroll County Sheriff Acted on Judgment of East Liverpool Firm.

CARROLLTON, March 20.—The smelters and tools at the alleged gold mine at Malvern are in the hands of the sheriff of Carroll county, who levied on them to satisfy a judgment of $500 obtained by Meredith & Co. of East Liverpool against the company recently organized to develop the alleged gold deposits.

It was recently announced that the development company would have a capital stock of $500,000, but so far as known none of the stock has been sold. The strike of gold bearing quartz has proven to be a myth.

Fire at Scio.

WHEELING, March 20.—The bursting of an oil tank on the lease of the Stark Oil company caused a fire at Scio, the booming oil town, Saturday night, that for a time threatened the entire village. The property destroyed included the new Thompson hotel, 75 rooms, just finished and furnished; the residences of John Grace, Mary Scott and Maggie Scott, the tanks and derricks of the Stark Oil company and 11 horses belonging to various concerns. The loss will be in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Suicide's Body Unclaimed.

STEUBENVILLE, March 20.—No relatives appeared to claim the remains of Alvin Nurnberg, the Pittsburgher who died in the lockup here Saturday morning as a result of poison. A woman from Pittsburgh viewed the body to see if it was her husband, who deserted her five years ago, but it was not. She refused to give her name. Two local rabbis appeared and identified Nurnberg as one of their faith and said they would bury the body if no one claimed it.

Old Railroader Died.

CLEVELAND, March 20.—Orville B. Skinner, for several years traffic manager of the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis railroad, died at the age of 65 years.

A Vineland (N. J.) girl was frightened by the explosion of a coffeepot boiling on the stove.

Girls who have to stand on their feet most of the time work as hard as any day-laborer yet they do not get what is rightly called exercise. Close, confining, indoor occupation gives no exhilaration to the nervous system nor active circulation to the blood. It wears, tears and drags a woman's life away. The whole physical system grows sluggish and torpid under it.

No wonder so many sales girls and factory girls and housewives suffer from indigestion and constipation and bilious troubles. No wonder they are subject to the diseases of the delicate special organism of their sex. The wonder is rather that they can stand it as well as they do.

But "a poor weak woman," as she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most eminent medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. Occupying this position for thirty years he has had wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. His "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only permanent digestive and nutrient tonic. The two medicines taken alternately, form the most perfect and successful course of treatment ever prescribed for female troubles complicated with a sluggish, overwrought, nervous, diseased constitution. In severe constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be occasionally taken with the others. They never gripe.
